ARMY TO BE 5 MILLION STRONG BY END OF YEAR

Troop Movements, Congress Is Told, Total 90,000 Men in First Ten Days of May and Number Is Still Increasing

OVER 500,000 NOW IN REGULAR FORCE

Representative Caldwell of the Military Committee Gives House Official Summary of Nation's Fighting Strength

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Predicting that the United States will have between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 men under arms before July 1, 1919, Representative Charles Caldwell, New York, member of the military committee, today gave the House an official summary of America's fighting strength.

"Within one year after the first Americans left for France, this nation will have 1,000,000 on the west front," Caldwell, who is close to the War Department, asserted.

"During the first ten days of May the troop movements totalled 99,000 men," Caldwell quoted official figures showing that the army by June 1 will have 1,889,894 men and 149,238 officers in the service, or a total of 2,039,132.

The men now in the American army are divided as follows, Caldwell explained:

	Officers.	Men.
Regular army	10,295	504,877
Reserve corps	79,038	78,560
National guard	16,908	411,592
National army	33,594	510,968
On special duty	1,195	150,000
Drafted in April	—	150,000
Drafted in May	—	232,743

Recent statements by members of the House that Secretary Houston had obtained deferred classification for 2000 men of draft age in the Department of Agriculture brought resolutions today calling on all cabinet officers to inform the House the number of men liable for military service employed in their departments for whom exemption has been requested and obtained.

Secretary of War Baker today asked Congress to authorize expenditures of $7,118,592,486 for the coming year and for immediate appropriation of $1,500,000,000 to carry on the ordnance program from July 1, until March 4, 1919.

ZEEBRUGGE AND OSTEND GIVEN UP BY GERMANS

BERNE, May 22.—German naval authorities are preparing to abandon Zeebrugge and Ostend as U-boat bases because of the recent blockades effected by British naval forces and the constant harassing of British bombing planes, according to information received from Berlin today.

U. S. Will Take Over All Steel

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The government is to take over every pound of steel in the country and then, after its needs have been met, will appropriate the remainder among essential industries.

This was announced this afternoon following a meeting of President Wilson's war cabinet, by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board.

$30,165,960 to Be Added to Navy Fund

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Additional requests for naval appropriations during the next fiscal year totaling $30,165,960 were submitted to Congress by Secretary Daniels this afternoon. Daniels' request included $11,000,000 for constructing and equipping training camps and $5,533,600 for procuring and testing shells.

Captain Biddle Is Recovering Wounds

PARIS, May 22.—The condition of Captain Charles J. Biddle of Andalusia, Pa., an aviator in the Lafayette escadrille, who was forced by a wound to land in No Man's Land, was today reported to be satisfactory. Biddle was previously reported missing, but was afterwards found in No Man's Land and taken to the hospital.

Red Cross Mercy Coin Is Harvested by Women Auxiliaries Who Enter Drive

MRS. WICKHAM HAVENS, who is working hard to send Oakland over the top in the Red Cross drive for $200,000.

Branch Houses Make Their Gifts

The fruits of the big Red Cross drive in Oakland are beginning to show. With $22,436 subscribed yesterday, the first day of the drive, through the efforts of the general committee, its auxiliaries and its various sub-organizations, today's drive gathered headway that bode fair to put it "over the top" with high honors. Up to 5 o'clock last night, the total subscriptions received amounted to $68,059. With $200,000 as Oakland's assigned quota, these figures are taken as heartening.

Swinging into line, one hundred and four groups strong, the women's auxiliaries of the Red Cross, who have been undergoing intensive training in war knitting, sewing, bandage-making and general war service, went into action this morning behind the $200,000 quota banner of the general committee, which represents Oakland's mark to be reached in the present drive. Heavy firing in the financial sector with continued action in the downtown salient have been heard all morning.

The auxiliary offensive is believed to be one of the strongest moves against the entrenched indifference of the community which could be made. In the first place, the auxiliaries know every inch of the ground. They have been in the Red Cross work from the very first. Hundreds of things which they have made with their own hands have warmed the boys in the trenches. Bandages which they have rolled have saved the lives of wounded men. They have touched the outer hells of the garment of war and they know its texture.

IS CONSIDERED STRATEGIC MOVE

The induction of these women into service is considered as one of the best strategic moves of the great campaign by the general committee. They are the ones who are giving the real service to the Red Cross. Many of the women of these auxiliaries, as in England and France and Belgium, have given sons and fathers to Uncle Sam. And they, more than anyone else, know just how far the little silver quarter that the ordinary man and woman drops by the wayside means to a wounded man when its purchasing power is wasted through other channels.

Aside from the spirit with which the general mass of Oaklanders are meeting the second Red Cross drive, the characteristic feature of the campaign itself is the ingenuity shown by the committee in charge in featuring ideas which will add to Oakland's total subscription list. On such is the calendar from the general Red Cross headquarters at Washington, which are intended as pledge cards and daily reminders. The calendars are to represent an income of $1 each. By the end of the month, they are being sold in large numbers. Mills College auxiliary was the first to send in a check, its contribution being $413.60. One calendar sold for $200. The auxiliary known as "Neighborhood's Children" is the first organization of the kind in the city to go over the top, its record of 100 per cent effect.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Holland does not consider that the United States satisfactorily justified its seizure of the Dutch ships which were taken over in American ports and now are in the American transport service.

In a lengthy communication to the State Department replying to the original explanation made by the United States affirming its right to make the seizure under international law, Holland has taken the position that the reasons set forth therein were not sufficient under international law to justify the action.

Holland, it is understood, specifically points out why it considers the United States was in the wrong. The text of the reply is withheld at present. It is understood that the Dutch reply leaves the way open for a continuation of the negotiations.

AMSTERDAM, May 22.—August Philips, Dutch minister to the United States, who recently returned on leave of absence because of ill health, has requested that he be relieved of his post at Washington, according to advices from The Hague today. The minister's request, it is stated, is made on medical advice.

LONDON, May 22.—The prohibition of the sailings of all Dutch ships from Dutch ports, the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says he learns, is connected with a new move by the German government to compel Holland to sign on Berlin's terms the long-pending economic agreement which Holland has declined to do owing to the numerous conditions imposed by Germany.

AMERICANS IN PICARDY TAKE HUN CAPTIVES

Resumption of German Drive Expected to Include Pershing's Sector; Allied Line May Give Some Under Big Blow

Enemy Airmen Shell Men in Trenches, But Are Driven Off by Rifle Fire; Teutons Shell Town, Killing Women

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 22.—The American artillery northwest of Toul launched a sudden and terrific local gas attack upon the German positions and cantonments within the Geretechamp wood early today. Severe punishment was inflicted upon the enemy. How great is not yet known.

The deluge of American shells fell in three waves and within half an hour the woods in which it is known many Germans were sleeping had been drenched with a large quantity of poisonous gas.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 22.—Tonight's official communiqué said: "In the course of reconnaissance combats in the Lorraine sector we captured prisoners. Here and in the Woëvre sector the artillery on both sides showed considerable activity."

WITH THE AMERICANS IN PICARDY, May 22.—Resumption of the German offensive may include this region.

The enemy's persistent aerial activity, day and night, and the marked quietude of artillery fire, may be the forerunner of the storm. The Boches have been particularly quiet during the past thirty-six hours, except aeryally.

The Germans have not dug in extensively in the Cantigny and Mondidier region, possibly indicating that it is no part of their plan to establish their line there, but rather to continue their effort to push on farther.

ALLIED LINE MAY GIVE SOME

When the blow comes it is entirely possible that the allied line will give the enemy a surprise. The German commander would attempt to take a blow full on the chest. He would lessen the force by drawing back his body, thus giving greater freedom to the rebound. The Boche aviators are taking desperate chances in an effort to cross the lines, to search for the tell-tale dust clouds along the American roads and photograph the towns and various positions.

Six of the enemy's airmen flew over the American front line today and opened fire with their machine guns, trying to shoot down the men in the trenches. The latter responded with their rifles and drove them off.

GERMANS CONTINUE NIGHT SHELLING

The Germans continue their night bombing and sporadic long-distance shelling. They shelled a town far in the rear last night, killing two women and two children. The shell came from a distance of at least 22 kilometers (13.5 miles).

There were only occasional bursts of artillery fire today, however. From the rear German lines great clouds of dust arose, marking the passage of wagons, automobiles and men along the roads. The hot sun scorched down on the men in the trenches and gun positions. All the roads are extremely dry and dusty.

Tobacco has been recognized as a necessity by the war department upon recommendation of General Pershing. In a few days, as soon as the order goes into effect, every soldier in the American expeditionary forces will be issued a daily ration of four-tenths of an ounce of smoking tobacco and ten cigarettes or a half-ounce of chewing tobacco, or four "taller-made" cigarettes.

The war department today issued the following supplement to General Pershing's report:

"Last night in Lorraine patrolling was very active, especially on our side. One patrol, consisting of one officer and twenty men, exploring a hostile position, gained contact and opened fire on a German patrol of approximately the same size. German patrol took cover and returned fire. Our patrol rushed position, put enemy to flight and captured two prisoners. One prisoner died of wounds after reaching our lines. Our patrol suffered no casualties. Later in the night a small hostile patrol attempted to rush one of our outposts, but was driven off by rifle fire. One German was killed and his body brought into our lines."

LONDON, May 22.—A German counter-attack in considerable strength on a 200-yard front, northwest of Meriville completely broke down yesterday morning. Field Marshal Haig declared in his night report. He also reported repulse of two enemy raids north of Baillou by French troops.

The French war office said their patrols made successful raids south-west of Lassigny in the Verdun sector and in Lorraine. Both artilleries were reported active south of the Aves.

British Invade Trenches, Capturing Prisoners and Guns on the Arras Front

(By Associated Press) In the sector southeast of Arras, German trenches were entered at two points last night by British raiding parties, says today's official British announcement. Prisoners and a machine gun were taken.

Artillery fighting of the most violent character occurred last night on the front southeast of Amiens, the French war office announced.

Italian troops in the mountains west of the Brenta have broken up enemy attacks, especially on the southern slopes of Sasso Rosso. On Monte Spinocchia, west of the Piave, says the official statement from the Italian war office today, an Austrian position was destroyed and fifty-four prisoners captured.

Turkish troops in Mesopotamia, north of Bagdad, display little activity, while British cavalry has advanced north of Tekrit on the Tigris to Fatha.

AIRCRAFT PROBE IS AUTHORIZED BY SENATE VOTE

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Attorney-General Gregory and Charles Evans Hughes have determined upon a far more sweeping investigation of the aircraft production program than at first planned.

The Senate military committee probably will defer its action in the matter determined upon today.

The probe will be a comprehensive inquiry to determine whether there is need for civil suits as well as criminal.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—With less than two minutes' debate the threatened breach between President Wilson and the Senate disappeared today when by a viva voce vote an acceptable substitute was adopted in place of the Chamberlain resolution which the President contended was nothing less than a proposal to constitute the military affairs committee a committee on the conduct of the war.

Senator Chamberlain said the compromise was satisfactory to him, as it authorized the military committee and sub-committees to proceed not only with the aircraft and ordnance investigations but also to make any other inquiries regarding army operations.

The compromise, pronounced acceptable to the administration and declared by Senator Chamberlain to be acceptable to him, was reached after prolonged conferences and proposed that any expenses incurred by the military committee for investigations previously authorized shall be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate. It eliminates entirely the proposed authority for a sub-committee to sit during the recess of Congress.

By the adoption of the substitute a vote on the original Chamberlain resolution was avoided entirely. President Wilson plainly told Senators he considered such a vote practically a question of a vote of confidence. The substitute resolution does not prevent an investigation of the aircraft situation, to which the President has stated he has no objection whatever. It meets the President's objections that the original Chamberlain resolution virtually proposed to constitute a committee on the conduct of the war and place with Congress the executive duties now lodged with the President and the other executive heads of the government.

HAIG PRAISES AUSTRALIANS FOR BRAVERY

LONDON, May 22.—Field Marshal Haig, the British commander-in-chief, has sent a message of congratulation to the Australian forces on the northern portion of the Flanders battlefield, who captured Villers-sur-Ancre.

Villers-sur-Ancre lies near Morlancourt, three miles south of Albert, and was captured by the Australians in a brilliant storm assault on Sunday.

Police and Thieves in Continued Fight

PARIS, May 22.—A veritable pitched battle is raging in the streets of Moscow between pillaging thieves and the police, according to information received here today. The police are powerless. Thousands of robberies and holdups have taken place in Moscow during the month.

Fairbanks Weak, But Is Holding His Own

INDIANAPOLIS, May 22.—Charles W. Fairbanks' condition was reported "about the same" early today. He had a good night with the exception of early in the evening, when he grew considerably weaker.

LONDON, May 22.—The total casualties in Sunday's air raid over Southwestern England were forty-four killed and 176 injured, it was officially announced this afternoon.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LONDON, May 22.—Successful British raids in various sectors and German artillery fire south of Albert and in the western and southern portions of the Flanders front were reported by Field Marshal Haig today.

"Successful raids were carried out last night in different parts of the front," the statement said.

"The enemy's artillery was active in the neighborhood of Dernancourt (two miles and a half south of Albert) and in the Nieppe forest (on the western portion of the Flanders front)."

"Northeast of Bethune (on the southern portion of the Flanders front) the enemy heavily bombarded us with gas shells."

"Our raiders captured fourteen prisoners and a machine gun south-east of Arras."

"Other prisoners were taken in the neighborhood of Nieppe forest in the Meteren sector and north of the Ypres-Comines canal."

"Hostile raiders were repulsed north of Albert last night."

PRELUDE OF PREVIOUS DRIVE REPEATED NOW

The signs of an approaching attack by the Germans on the western front are the same which preceded the initial drive on March 21, says Hamilton Pyke, war correspondent of the Daily Mail. It is believed that the Germans will try to use cavalry more freely and considerable tanks. In addition it is reported that the Germans are endeavoring to improve the rationing of their troops.

Reports say that German anxiety about the growing number of Americans in France is increasing. The Germans are greatly perplexed to hear of so many American troops on French soil and that more are arriving all the time. The German command is also anxious about the number of allied reserves.

Advices to the Daily Express from Gen. Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien say that the German city of Cologne as a result of the recent British air raid. Bombs struck the town hall, the barracks and the railway station, but the raiders were careful to avoid hitting the cathedral. Many recruits were killed.

Another advance for the British troops operating in Mesopotamia was reported by the British war office today. The British are now as far as Fatha. The Turks fell back without making any resistance.

VIOLENT BATTLE RAGES ON GRECO-SERB BORDER

PARIS, May 22.—The Tenthio artillery has opened a violent bombardment upon the British positions west of Lake Doiran, said a French communiqué devoted to operations, received from the British front.

(Lake Doiran lies upon the border of Greece and Serbia.)

The report adds: "The enemy has shelled our positions at Pogradec. The Serbians have carried out a destructive bombardment at the head of the Therna river and in sector of Vetenik."

"The allies encampments in the rear of the German lines."

"Elsewhere there is nothing to report."

The Germans have been heavily shelling the camps in the rear of the Belgian lines and German aviators have been carrying out several bombing expeditions, according to the latest Belgian official war statement. The Belgians have carried out reprisal measures, the communiqué stated. The artillery fire on the Belgian front has become unusually heavy.

GAINS ARE TOLD IN ITALIAN COMMUNIQUE
ROME, May 22.—"We have extended our positions at Caposile (on the lower Piave)," says an official announcement of the war office. "There has been increasing artillery activity. We carried out a coup de main against the enemy fortifications on Mont Spinocchia, almost destroying the garrison and its reinforcements of two officers and fifty-two men."

SINN FEINERS ON THEIR WAY TO ENGLAND

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

DUBLIN, May 22.—A further consignment of Sinn Fein prisoners left Dublin today on the way to England. The group was not one of newly-arrested persons, it was stated, but a small number who had been heretofore detained at local barracks. According to the local newspapers, Count Plunkett was the only prominent person in the party.

The Associated Press correspondent learns that there still remains a considerable list of "suspects" who may be taken into custody at any time. Considerable significance is attached to the calling into conference of the military chiefs from Belfast and Cork.

DILLON SPEAKS.

After calling attention to the importance of the American public being fully informed of the Irish situation at the present time, Dillon said: "The Irish party at a special meeting held on Thursday of last week issued a statement from which the following is an extract:

"All the machinery of propaganda controlled by the British government has been set in motion to blacken the name of Ireland in America and to prejudice the American people and the American government against the Irish nation. We feel it our duty, as the elected representatives of the Irish nation, to appeal most earnestly to the people of America and the American government not to be deceived by these propagandists' misrepresentations, but to listen to the statement of Ireland's case from an Irishman in sympathy with the national aspiration of the people of Ireland and qualified to speak on behalf of the Irish nation."

NO INFORMATION.

"At the time the above statement was issued none of us had the slightest information of the intended coup of the government, but justification for our warning came with dramatic rapidity."

KINEMA THEATER GIVES BENEFIT FOR RED CROSS

Just some times it is afforded that while doing one's duty one may have a good time about it. But this time one will not only contribute to the Oakland chapter of the American Red Cross, and have a good time doing it, but one will have the privilege of witnessing in its first showing on the Pacific Coast that wonderful film play, "Mothers of Liberty."

The Kinema has planned a special morning and early afternoon matinee for tomorrow. The management has offered to the Oakland chapter of the Red Cross every penny or dollar or gold spot which finds its way through the box office. It is the gift of the Kinema to the patriotic cause. Mrs. Joseph Roshborough will take possession of the box office and be custodian of the funds. She will be assisted in the foyer by a coterie of the Kinema society matrons, among whom will be Mrs. William Thornton White. No tickets will be sold, nor will any change be offered in return for admission. It is the Red Cross Day.

"The Mothers of Liberty" is a spectacular film story, the inspiration for which is found in an incident during the Franco-Prussian war when the same atrocities were practiced as are being encouraged today by the Germans. The drama is unfolded in six parts, bringing the tale down to the present time, with a stirring patriotic message. It will be shown at 1:45, and one time only. The reel will not again be put on for several months. All who enter the Kinema before 2 o'clock may be confident that they are helping swell the Red Cross fund. Accompanying the new and strong reel will be Marguerite Clark in the regular offering of the week, "Rich Man, Poor Man."

Mrs. Stella Jellison has offered to sing patriotic songs which will be a feature of the benefit of the Red Cross week.

HOME AGAIN AFTER CAPTURE BY SEA RAIDER

BERKELEY, May 22.—"Thank God, I'm home again. The Germans treated me and my family exceptionally well, but I don't know how long I could have stood it if I could for what they have done to others."

In this declaration Captain John Stanley Cameron, who with his wife and seven-year-old daughter, have been held for nine months as prisoners by the German raider Sea Wolf, expressed his hatred and bitterness for the cruelties of the Spanish prize ship, Igrotz Mend, where they were huddled in the hold with Japanese, Chinese, negroes and others of all races. Rations of barely enough to keep the prisoners from starvation were fed them by the Germans, while indignities of all kinds were heaped upon the prisoners.

For nine months Captain Cameron and his wife and daughter were held prisoners together with scores of other victims of the raider's operations, first on the raider itself and later on the Spanish prize ship, Igrotz Mend, where they were huddled in the hold with Japanese, Chinese, negroes and others of all races. Rations of barely enough to keep the prisoners from starvation were fed them by the Germans, while indignities of all kinds were heaped upon the prisoners.

WERE RELEASED.

The wrecking of the Spanish steamer in a fog off the coast of Denmark released Captain Cameron and the other prisoners from the clutches of the Germans. Not only they had put ashore on some desert island or any place at all it would have been better for them, but they had undergone the treatment which they accorded us, declared Captain Cameron. "For myself I was exceptionally well treated because of my wife and child," he said. "The captain of the Sea Wolf was considerate enough not to separate us. I was the only seafaring man aboard the Igrotz Mend and the only man who was whole physically. On the Spanish ship they placed all of the cripples, epileptics, lunatics and the like of the same kind. Rations were cut down to a point which barely withheld starvation."

ONLY WOMAN.

Mrs. Cameron was the only woman prisoner on board the Sea Wolf for a number of months and the first woman whom the Germans had seen in some time. For that reason Captain Cameron was accorded unusual consideration by the Germans and was given the freedom of the officers' quarters.

SUFFER INDIGNITIES.

Captain Cameron declared that indignities of all kinds were suffered by the prisoners on the prize ship. A junior lieutenant was in charge of the Igrotz Mend and delighted to torment the prisoners over the captives and the German crew, he states. "One of the crew got in his head one day and was stabbed in the side by the lieutenant who then threw him up and down the deck with his sword dripping blood."

Captain Cameron has been since February 26 on his way to Berkeley, where his 4-year-old daughter Edris has been under the care of Mrs. H. R. Balch, 1410 Henry street, where the Camerons are at present staying. He stopped three weeks in New York, where he gave a mass of interesting information of his experiences and observations to the naval authorities.

LIEUTENANT IS OUSTED BY ARMY

Second Lieutenant Robert E. Dary, infantry reserve corps, stationed at Camp Leavenworth, Kansas, was at a court martial to dishonorable dismissal from the army for disobeying his superior officer's order to oversee a detail of soldiers working on a bomb-proof trench. Resident Wilson has personally approved the sentence, according to word from Washington. Dary refused to take orders from another second lieutenant, Royal A. Coffey, although Coffey had been placed in temporary command of the party.

Lieutenant Clifford W. Bogan, a reserve dentist, will be dismissed in honor from the army for stealing alcohol and getting intoxicated at Camp Funston.

Teamsters to Give

Day's Pay for Mercy

At a special meeting of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local No. 76, the following preamble and resolution were unanimously endorsed by the 373 members present:

Whereas: The American Red Cross society has appealed to the people of this country for financial assistance, and

Whereas: The organized labor movement realizes that the American Red Cross Society has always done, and is doing all in its power to alleviate the sufferings of humanity, whether on the battlefield or in the home of the poor;

Therefore be it Resolved: That the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local No. 76, in special meeting assembled, this 17th day of May, 1918, assess each and every one of its members one full day's pay as our donation to the American Red Cross Society in partial recognition of the magnificent work it is doing for all the peoples of the world.

Signed, E. H. Hart, secretary; R. F. Murray, president.

RETURNS FROM S. MEET.

Charles H. J. Truman, superintendent of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church, has just returned from the state Sunday school convention held at Turlock. Truman reports unusual interest in the proceedings held this year and that the state Sunday schools are in a very flourishing condition.

I. H. Clay, general chairman of the branch house campaign which is being conducted among local stores, agencies and concerns, whose main office is somewhere else, has not with- out success—due principally to hard work on the part of the committee. One of the pleasant surprises of the campaign among these institutions was the check for $1,000 which came from the parent house in Pittsburgh of the Standard Undergarment Co., which has through its local manager John P. Bell to the local committee. The same institution contributed $25,000 to the Liberty Bond drive.

A check for $300 from F. W. Woolworth Co. was received with the following letter: "To I. H. Clay, Chairman Branch Houses:

"We have been advised by our San Francisco district office that they have received a letter from you in reference to a subscription to the Oakland Chapter of the Red Cross."

"Our San Francisco office further advised that they had received from you a letter stating that they had already made their contribution to the Red Cross fund, to the San Francisco Chapter. This reply, however, did not cover my contribution to be made by the Oakland Chapter store."

"During the previous Red Cross drive the F. W. Woolworth Co., through its executive office donated $25,000. In addition to this each store through its manager made a further contribution."

"On account of the many requests received from the different districts and different cities, the executive committee of the F. W. Woolworth Co. have decided to handle all contributions through each local store and all further contributions of this kind will be made in this manner."

"As we have not as yet received a letter from you for a solicitor regarding a donation to this fund, we would thank you to enter our subscription for the Oakland, Cal., store of the F. W. Woolworth Company for the amount of ($300) check for which amount is attached herewith."

MANY TO GIVE

PAY OF A DAY

The pay of a day resolution has been passed by the employees of the Hammer-Cox foundry and their general factory, by the employees of A. Schlueter & Co., the Fagels Motor Co. and the Stone shinglers. The Stone shinglers employ at the present time about sixteen men. These men sent their check for $77.10 and the firm, enclosed its check for $100.

Hanlon Drydock and Shipbuilding Company is working in close cooperation with their men in the war fund drive. The company has not only agreed to run the plant on Sunday, so the men who desire may work and turn over their pay to the Red Cross, but it further agrees to donate the net profits of the plant on that day to the Red Cross and to permit the check for the full payment of the men to their respective unions through which the men are making their donations.

In a letter to Harry East Miller, George A. Aronson, president of the Moore Shipbuilding Company, says that his company wishes to cooperate with the men in the proposed actions of the labor organizations insofar as it is possible for them to do so.

With as many organizations in the field all working for the same end and there is bound to be some duplication of effort. Reports have reached headquarters that men who are giving the pay of a day through their unions have also been asked to contribute through other sources. On several occasions it has happened to men who have sons at the front, and because a man with a boy in the army cannot afford a plea for the Red Cross, it often means that he gives far beyond his pocketbook.

Richard Ayer, chairman of the drive, declares that if a man is a member of a union he prefers to receive his subscription through that union; and if he has made his subscription in that manner he should not be asked again. The drive in Oakland is to be one of voluntary giving.

The following is a partial list of the subscriptions that have been received at Red Cross headquarters:

MIDDLE WEST TOWNS WIPED OUT BY STORM

DES MOINES, May 22.—Nearly a score of persons dead, about 100 others injured, several seriously, and property damage estimated to exceed $1,000,000 represents the toll taken by a series of tornadoes in Central Iowa late yesterday, despatches today showed.

MADISON, Wis., May 22.—Five persons were killed and thirty injured, a number of whom are expected to die, when the village of Lone Rock, four miles west of Madison, was partly wiped out by a violent hail storm. The entire northern part of the town was swept away. The dead and injured were found in some instances almost a mile from where their houses stood. Relief parties were rushed to the stricken village from Avoca, Brodhead and Spring Green. Every available physician in these towns was pressed into service.

Has Plan for Forming War Savings Clubs

F. G. Eschbach, a local mail carrier, has originated a plan for organizing war service societies which he believes will help not only the thrift movement, but all forms of war service. Postmaster J. J. Rosborough has approved of the plan and has urged all mail carriers to give it a thorough try-out. Eschbach says he has successfully tested his scheme and has been able thereby to bring about the organization of several war savings societies. He explains his idea as follows: "Let mail carriers watch for service flags and spot every home that has a boy in the service of his country. Request the mother of every soldier or sailor to call together ten or more of her boy's friends and form a war savings society under the name of her boy and along the lines of the war savings pamphlet issued by the National War Savings committee." Eschbach says these war savings societies will develop into war service societies in many instances. A school boy or girl, he points out, can be secretary of the society and can write interesting reports of the meeting to her brother or other soldiers serving in the front. In his plan, Eschbach says, every member of the family can give valuable service.

Dreams Come True? Yes, Some Do! Tribune Day at Idora No Dream

It'll Be a Reality On June 4; Everyone Invited!

What's in a dream? Well, that depends on what the dreamer's about. For instance, Little Willie has a dream every night; he dreams about TRIBUNE DAY—every night is just like a TRIBUNE DAY in his dreams—and on June 4 comes the climax. For that's the real TRIBUNE DAY. That's the day all the things he's been dreaming about and thinking about and talking about are going to become real live realities! He's going out there with free tickets to everything, as The TRIBUNE's guest. He's going to enjoy the concessions, the games, the races, the entertainment, and altogether have the time of his life. So are his sisters and brothers, his parents and all his friends—in fact, everybody in Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and for miles around! That's why there's just one thought among them all. And that is TUESDAY, JUNE 4, TRIBUNE DAY AT IDORA. Every man, woman and child in the bay region is invited to enjoy the day at Idora with The TRIBUNE. There will be free tickets for anybody and everybody; free passes to all the concessions; free joy on tap. There'll be special events for every minute of the day and night; contests, spectacular sights; funny stunts; entertainment of every kind. All FREE. TRIBUNE DAY has been the big day of every year for a long time. It has been one of Oakland's institutions. Thousands have revelled every year as the guests of the newspaper. But this one is going to be the BIGGEST EVER! This year will be the CLIMAX of all the big TRIBUNE DAY celebrations of the past. It'll be the very greatest celebration Oakland has ever seen—the greatest celebration of its kind ever staged. And that's why YOU HAVE A DATE! And it's TUESDAY, JUNE 4, TRIBUNE DAY AT IDORA. You'll be meeting other members and forming other societies.

TUESDAY, JUNE 4, TRIBUNE DAY AT IDORA.

Some dreams come true if you but wait; Small Willie has a dream that's great And coming true June 4th; for he Dreams TRIBUNE DAY, when all is free! He'll ride the racing horses; he Will see all things there are to see Out at Idora! And each dream Another TRIBUNE DAY does seem!

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The war department announced today forty-eight casualties in the American expeditionary forces. Three were killed in action, two died of wounds, two of disease, thirty-eight were wounded severely and three wounded slightly. Lieutenant Robert H. Long of Houston, Texas, the only officer on the list, was reported wounded severely. Private Richard W. Johnson, previously reported missing, is now reported to have rejoined his command.

Captain Dent Dies and Is Buried While at Sea
 Captain George S. Dent of the schooner Ottilie Ford, whose home was at 1445 Seventy-sixth avenue, died and was buried at sea, it was learned with the arrival of the vessel yesterday. Mrs. Dent and her 6-year-old daughter were across the bay and waited six hours at the dock, while the schooner was being towed in and passing quarantine, only to hear of her husband's death. Captain Dent had been a sufferer from asthma and stomach trouble for some time. On May 9, soon after leaving his home, he became very sick and died. He was buried on May 7. None of the others in the crew knew how to handle a sextant and First Mate Svenson decided to proceed home by dead reckoning.

Police Seek Youth Strangely Missing
 Believing that her son met with an accident on a fishing trip he planned last Friday, Mrs. Anna Peterson, 332 Thirteenth street, has appealed to Captain of Inspectors Harry E. Green to investigate the circumstances of his strange disappearance. According to the mother, the boy, Frank Peterson, age 16 years, left his place of employment at a local shipyard Friday night without collecting his pay and planned to go fishing with a youth companion, Frank Boe of 1015 Jefferson street.

Thirteen More Are Lost On Cyclops
 WASHINGTON, May 22.—An additional list of thirteen men, probably lost with the naval collier Cyclops, was received today by the Navy Department. The announcement said they had been transferred from other ships to the Cyclops as passengers and were presumably aboard the vessel when she left on her last voyage. The names of the men follow: John D. F. Baudiere, seaman, Phoenix, Ariz.; Harry Davis, baker, Howell, Pa.; Otto H. Evans, carpenter, Springfield, Ill.; Raymond Farrell, seaman, New York; Clement O. Freeman, painter, Wheeling, W. V.; Earl Edwin Long, coxswain, Walter, Ohio; D. J. McKee, blacksmith, Bismarck, N. D.; M. J. J. Miller, boilermaker, New Orleans; Earl William Molekone, plumber, Salem, Ore.; W. L. Terris, freeman, Specieville, Tex.; L. A. Shuley, electrician, Marshall, Texas; W. D. Sweeney, machinist, Fall River, N. D.; R. A. Webster, electrician, Hutchinson, Kan.

Clymer to Speak at Rotary Club Lunch
 John L. Clymer, director of the Bureau of Development Pacific Division, of the Red Cross, will be the speaker tomorrow at the Rotary Club luncheon in the Hotel Oakland on the work of the organization. The luncheon will be entirely turned over to aiding this week's Red Cross drive. Fred E. Reed will preside, and several new members will be introduced.

SHORTBRIDGE TO ADDRESS S. D. W.

The greater Americanization plans of the Sons and Daughters of Washington will be launched at a great mass meeting Sunday night at Chabot hall, when the principal speaker will be Hon. Samuel M. Shortbridge. A large number of representative citizens of Oakland will occupy the platform with the distinguished speaker, who will be introduced by Mayor Davies. The S. D. W. is launching its Americanization scheme in a large way at the present moment in order to co-ordinate the community plans of Dr. Frederick Vinson Fisher, the Council of Defense and the War Service League, all of whom are engaged in promoting a great patriotic wave in this vicinity. The S. D. W. is composed of many American and foreign-born citizens, the former aiding in every way to help the latter to reach the highest ideals of American citizenship.

As vice-presidents of the Americanization committee which has been invited to occupy the platform with Shortbridge are Judge J. W. Stetson, Judge Jesse J. Dunn, Judge Harry W. Paulifer, District Attorney Edwin Deotto, Lin Church, Judge W. H. Waste, Mrs. Lewis B. Avery, J. P. Maxwell, V. O. Lawrence, Dr. E. K. Greene, Mrs. Edgar L. Ormsby, Frederick Dubovsky, Joseph R. Knowland, H. C. Capwell, Joseph H. King, George S. Merced, John F. Conners, Harmon Bell, F. M. Carey, F. I. Lemos, Judge Mortimer Smith, Frederick M. Hunter, Lewis B. Avery, J. H. MacLafferty.

In addition to four-minute talks by prominent people interested in this great patriotic movement, there will be an unusually fine musical program, including musical numbers by Mrs. Irene Lenoir, the well-known San Francisco soprano. Dr. Fisher will be the guest of the Sons and Daughters of Washington at a public luncheon which that organization

K. of C. Will Hold Special Initiation

Oakland Council No. 184, Knights of Columbus, will hold special initiation services in the first degree tonight. The team exemplifying this degree work will include the officers of the Berkeley Council, Knights of Columbus, namely: Frank V. Cornish, Grand Knight, and Dislin, H. S. Navy; Edward Delaney, U. S. Navy; Francis M. Landrigan and James M. Kelly. The class of candidates to receive the degree consists of Joseph B. Foster, F. Joseph Lauck, Eugene McGlinchey, Chas. G. Jones, U. S. Navy; Edward Delaney, U. S. Navy; Francis M. Landrigan and James M. Kelly. It is planning to take place at the Hotel Oakland Monday at 12:45. Dr. Fisher and Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt will both be heard in addresses regarding the Americanization movement being launched.

Benefit Money Is Given to Red Cross

The Garfield Civic Association has donated to the Red Cross $22.55, the proceeds of a benefit entertainment held in the auditorium of the new Twenty-third avenue branch library last night. Dr. Ward M. Beckwith, president of the association, gave the opening remarks. Mrs. A. Hughes, a Red Cross worker, explained the workings of the Red Cross. Those who contributed to the program were Mrs. Frank Miller, George Goody Jr., Will Alair, Arthur Rogers, Albert Ackerman, William Wheeler, Joseph Bateman and Captain William I. Day.

FRESNO GETS 1919 SESSION OF PYTHIANS

Fresno was chosen as the site for the 1919 Grand Lodge session for California of the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters.

Officers, with the exception of three contested officers, were elected today at the Grand Lodge session of the Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisters. The Pythian Sisters today also organized a women's auxiliary of the D. O. K. K., the social order of the Pythians.

The votes have not yet been counted on the contest for grand prelate, but it is expected that the committee headed by W. P. Gates had probably won the election. C. H. Johnson of Oakland, receiving a comparatively large vote, being in line for the office at the Fresno convention. H. S. Turner also ran for this office. For grand master-at-arms a close vote is being counted between H. A. Ryder and W. Amsey.

G. P. Cummings of Fresno, former vice-chancellor, was named to the chancellorship, according to custom. Walter Gyerim of Pomona is vice-chancellor; James R. Sloan of Oakland, grand master of California; Vernon Perry, grand inner guard, and George Dixon of San Francisco grand outer guard. A. J. Davis of Richmond Joseph Heyman of Oakland and A. J. Bullard of San Francisco were named grand trustees.

PYTHIAN SISTERS OFFICERS.

The Pythian Sisters completed all elections save that of grand outer guard, this office to be filled by Australian ballot tomorrow. Their officers are: Grand chief, Hattie Goodrich of Los Angeles; grand senior chief, Anna Barrett of Sacramento; grand junior chief, Drucilla Kalkoff of Bakersfield; grand manager, Olive Horn of Los Angeles; and grand matron of records, Louise Holmes of Oakland.

Mrs. Holmes is filling her twenty-fourth year in this office.

The women's auxiliary of the D. O. K. K. will meet tonight, holding a banquet at Pythian Castle at 7 o'clock, and will serve a midnight luncheon to the men after their removal.

Today's business session, besides confirming the election of the officers, was devoted by the Pythians to plans for their building fund, to establish a Pythian Home. This money, expected to aggregate $1000, will be invested in Liberty Bonds, which will be held in escrow as the nucleus of the fund.

The Grand Lodge itself, which voted $50,000 for the purchase of Liberty Bonds, will probably take $25,000 after this session, this being the surplus available. Action on this is expected tomorrow.

PARADE THIS EVENING.

Tonight at 8:30 the Abu Zaid Temple of the D. O. K. K. will parade and hold a reception at the Hotel Oakland.

FOR WEAK, PALE CHILDREN

Close confinement in school during the past winter, overstudy perhaps, an attack of the grip or tonsillitis, some one of these things is doubtless responsible for the condition of the child who shows a decline in health now.

What are the symptoms? Pallor and languor, a sickle appetite, dark rings under the eyes, bronchial colds. Very often the child of the family physician fall in such cases and the condition of the child causes the most intense anxiety. Cod-liver oil, so often prescribed, generally fails because the weak stomach is unable to digest fats. Try this treatment. Before breakfast each morning give the child the juice of half an orange. After the noon meal give one of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Keep this up for a few days then give one of the pills after the evening meal also. Weigh the child before beginning the treatment and again after two weeks. An increase in weight of from two to five pounds will show you that you are on the right track at last. Care is necessary in the diet of the patient and it would be well to send to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a diet book and the pamphlet, "Building Up the Blood." Both are free. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Woman Faints on Witness Stand Accused of Betraying Sister

Accused by Attorney John W. Stetson as a Judas Iscariot, and who betrayed her sister for commercial gain, Florence Friedman swooned today in Judge W. H. Wiste's court, where she was a witness in her own defense in a suit brought by her sister, Mrs. Hattie H. Friedman, to cancel a deed of trust on which is situated a roadhouse near Daly City, and is in the care of a physician suffering from hysteria.

For half an hour after the ordeal on the witness-stand Miss Friedman wept and wailed and shouted that she had and the truth, and that the truth must come out. She was carried into an adjoining room and restoratives administered in an effort to quiet her.

While testifying as to the facts of the case, the witness volunteered certain damaging testimony concerning her sister's second marriage. Attorney Stetson, for the other sister, asked her to state, Mrs. Burk. The witness said that she did, and that she would do anything for her.

"Do you consider an evidence of love and affection to dislodge Stetson asked.

"The truth must be told," the witness replied.

"You are the second of your race to claim the right to make such a betrayal," said Stetson, whereupon the witness rose and asked for a drink. Stumbling out of the room, she swooned at the door and upon recovering began to moan and cry out and efforts to calm her were unavailing.

By the terms of the deed of trust, executed to her sisters, Mrs. Burk was to receive a certain monthly return. The balance of the income was to go to the support of the daughter of the plaintiff by a former marriage. Since her second marriage and the advent of another child Mrs. Burk seeks to cancel the deed of trust and acquire not the custody of her first child. It is claimed that the income from the property is a handsome surplus to the sisters.

In defense of the rights claimed under the deed of trust, Miss Friedman testified that the plaintiff's sister is not a proper person to be given custody of her child.

MASQUE MIRRORS COLLEGE'S IDEALS

"Fiat Lux," a miracle play telling in allegory the story of the founding of the Convent College of Holy Names in Oakland half a century ago and setting forth the ideal of the institution in its training for girls, formed one of the most pleasing features of the ceremonies yesterday marking the fiftieth anniversary of the college. The play, written by Priscilla Anastasia Cavagnaro of the class of 1913, was presented by girls from this year's graduating class and alumnae of the college.

The play will be long remembered by those who attended the celebration yesterday, and its presentation may be made an annual event.

In the form of tableaux, poetic interludes and songs, the story of the founding of the college is told. Woven into this historical background is an allegory of Maldenford, of her being offered the choice of Play and Work, the intrusion of Evil, the coming of Joy and the fatal sequence of Sorrow, and of how the Spirit of the White Rose in the Convent Garden brings her enlightenment. In this scene the rose bower of the convent garden, a shrine consecrated to Mother Mary Rose, who established the organization of the Sisters of the Sacred Names in Eastern Canada, was reproduced upon the stage.

Those who took part in the miracle play were Mrs. Lucille Bray, '87; Dorothy Cox, Priscilla Cavagnaro, '13; Narcissa Cerini, '18; Ruth McCarthy, Ellen Brennan, '15; Claire Taylor, Catherine Dunn, Marjorie Blair, '18; Loretta Stuart, '17; Albina Cairre, Frances McClennahan, Genevieve McCarthy, Bernice Baker.

a ceremonial. This afternoon the two orders were taken on an automobile ride about Oakland by the automobile committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The women's order of the D. O. K. K. will hold a ceremonial early tonight, to be followed by a theater party for the Pythian Sisters at the Kline.

Tomorrow's business session will be followed by the "Visit of Courtesy" between the orders and a ball in the evening at the Hotel Oakland.

Friday will see closing sessions, in the morning, to be followed by an outing to an "I am a health" at this outing D. O. K. K. ceremonies and "stunts" will be offered.

Last night the Grand Lodge held a dinner at the Hotel Oakland. Robert Robertson of Oakland was the chief speaker.

CALIFORNIA TO GO LIMIT TO HELP WIN WAR

—GOV. STEPHENS.

"California and Californians are willing to go the limit to win the war."

This was California's word to the world, voiced today by Governor William D. Stephens of California, at the joint luncheon of the Manufacturers Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, and the Home Industry League, at the Hotel Oakland.

The governor entered a plea for aid to the fullest extent to the Red Cross, scored the activities of I. W. W. agitators as a menace to the nation and called on every man to help put down sedition and back America in the present struggle.

"It is up to you to keep away from the boys," he said. "The boys are fighting and dying for us, that the nation may live. And we will never, after the atrocities of Germany, consent to a compromise peace. You must always have money for the Red Cross; how little it is when we give it to save our boys!"

"We can all help the government in many ways. Take care of the seditionist. Counsel your unruly neighbor first and then turn him over to the government if he is wrong. The time has passed when a man can safely talk in America against the government."

"But we should be careful in our attitude to those born elsewhere. The man born in Germany, who honestly serves America, deserves commendation and already has mine."

"All honor to the women who are aiding this noble work, too! Let us win a permanent peace that will make the world safely a light to men."

Dr. George C. Pardee presided. Captain H. C. C. of the French army described Red Cross work at the front, and Baldwin Vail, head of the Home Industry League, added an appeal for the Red Cross. Dr. Pardee spoke of German atrocities.

FORTY CLOWNS WITH BIG CIRCUS

An organization for the propaganda of laughter is the "Clown Alley" of the Sells-Floto circus, or, at least, that is what the forty boys who wear the masks of white chalk and red paint like to call their cog in the activities of the "big show."

Of all the people with the circus, the clowns are perhaps the best posted on current events, especially the producing clowns, who are the monarchs of their profession—and if you don't realize that clowning is a profession, you should watch the producing clowns rehearsing their troupe of budding clowns, and portable settings in the winter months before the gaudily painted trains slide down the continental divide from the winter quarters at Denver toward the opening stand in the early part of April.

Girl Run Down and Killed by Automobile

SACRAMENTO, May 22.—When 11-year-old Ramond Cals of North Sacramento alighted from an automobile to cross the street and go to school, another automobile, driven by Joseph A. Smith, of 1504 E. Street, San Francisco, traveling salesman, ran over her.

Ed Beckwith, who picked the girl up and conveyed her to the hospital, where she died a few minutes after arrival, was arrested, pending an inquest to determine the cause of death.

Smith was taken into custody by city detectives and was questioned by the district attorney. Action against Smith will be delayed, pending an inquest to determine the cause of death.

BIGAMY CHARGE FACES NAVY MAN

J. J. Karl, an officer in the United States navy, is in the Alameda city prison on a charge of bigamy made by Mrs. Marjorie Karl of 2255 San Pablo avenue, Oakland. Mrs. Sara Sennebaugh Karl, whom the naval man married in Oakland yesterday afternoon, was taken to Oakland by Corporal Charles Swisher of the military provost guard last night after being detained several hours at police headquarters. Swisher declares that Karl has overstayed his shore leave and that the officer also faces a charge of desertion. He is attached to the receiving ship at Goat Island.

Mrs. Marjorie Karl says that she and Karl were married in Los Angeles eight years ago. They have a 7-year-old child, which they adopted two years ago. The first Mrs. Karl has been living at the San Pablo address with a sister. She has been getting $30 a month, joint allotment of pay and government allowance.

The arrest of Karl and his second spouse took place in Alameda a few hours after the couple were married by an Oakland justice of the peace. The couple were arrested at 735 Buena Vista avenue.

The second Mrs. Karl was Mrs. Sara Sennebaugh, and has been employed by Mrs. R. Dougherty as a domestic at the Dougherty home on Palermo avenue in this city.

The first Mrs. Karl is an attractive blonde about 25 or 26 years of age. The second Mrs. Karl is younger and a decided brunette.

HAS NO REMEDY FOR BOND DILEMMA

Hiram W. Johnson, United States Senator, is up to his eyes in the problem of finding a remedy to what the mayor declared to be an unequal apportionment of bond subscription allotments in cities contiguous, as Oakland is, to another and greater financial community. Mayor Davis received a reply from Senator Johnson to a letter sent May 11, in which the subject was called to the attention of Senator Johnson and Congressman J. Arthur Elston.

Mayor Davis, in presenting the matter, complained that "commuters are very politely forced to make their subscriptions in San Francisco."

Senator Johnson stated that he has reached the conclusion that the situation should be remedied but that he has not yet arrived at a solution of the problem.

GREAT SERVICE.

"I think you would perform a great public service if you could solve both ends of this question," wrote Senator Johnson.

In his letter to the Senator, Mayor Davis said:

"Because of the great amount of criticism prevailing over this point, referring to the recent Liberty bond drive, I am taking up your time in the hope that you may have a suggestion to solve this problem."

"Of course the government is only interested in getting the funds, regardless of place. However, the people of no city desire to have its reputation blighted by failure in a patriotic drive. For this reason there is a great amount of sentiment in favor of an adjustment which will give a city the benefit of the subscriptions of its residents."

RAISES POINT.

Senator Johnson raises the point that the cities of the community might be leveled somewhat after the fashion of apportioning taxes. His reply follows:

"My dear Mayor Davis:

"I read with great interest your letter of May 8 concerning various patriotic drives which have recently occurred. I am gradually reaching the conclusion that not only the particular matter that you suggest, whereby the community is not given credit for what its citizens do, should be remedied, but that we should devise some method for the equal distribution of the burden. I am not clear whether the whole thing should be conducted under the authority of the government—like the levying of taxes; but I do know that it is pretty hard on the average man, who is unselfish, and generous, and patriotic, to meet drive after drive, perhaps far beyond his financial means; and then have some other fellow, perhaps with greater resources, shirk or evade. I think you'd perform a great public service if you could solve both ends of this question. Sincerely,

"(Signed) HIRAM W. JOHNSON."

DUNN DECLINES TO BE CANDIDATE

Holding that in endorsing the "St. Louis platform, the Socialist party has renounced allegiance to the Government of the United States and therefore has no moral right to vote in the Government or to support candidates," Walter R. Dunn, an Oakland attorney, who was the candidate of the party in 1914, for attorney-general, has declined to accept the nomination of the Socialists as their candidate for associate justice of the appellate court.

In a letter explaining his stand, addressed to Local Fair Oaks of the Socialist party, through which the nomination was secured, Dunn stated that he was charged that the Socialist stand was at that place tonight by Laurentian Council, No. 70, of the Young Ladies' Institute. The dance is being held for the sick benefit fund of their council. The girls have been aided by members of the League of the Young Ladies in planning to make the affair a success, and from all indications there will be a large gathering of young folks.

The boys in blue and khaki will be well represented during the evening, as a number of soldiers are expected to come over from the Presidio. Tickets have also been sold among the members of the Knights of Columbus, Young Men's Institute and the League of the Cross Cadets, besides to numbers of others.

Only About Half the Steer is Beef

Live Weight 1200 pounds

100%

Dressed Weight 672 pounds of Beef

56%

When Swift & Company buys a steer weighing 1200 pounds, only about 672 pounds goes to market as beef; the other 528 pounds consists of hide, fats, other by-products, and waste.

When the packer pays 15 cents a pound for a steer, he sells the meat to the retailer for about 24 cents. But the packer gets only about 6 cents a pound for the other 528 pounds.

This means that the packer gets about 16 cents a pound for all the products from a steer for which he pays 15 cents.

The difference of 1 cent per pound covers the cost of dressing, preparation of by-products, freight on beef to all parts of the United States, operation of distributing houses, and leaves a net profit of only about 1/4 of a cent per pound on all dressed beef sold.

Large volume of business and utilization of parts that were formerly wasted, make this achievement possible.

Take Peptiron Now

Needed in the Spring by Pale, Weak, Nervous People.

Peptiron is in the form of pills, chocolate-coated, pleasant to take, easily assimilated, and is the most successful combination of iron of which its makers, C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass., have any knowledge.

You must have an abundance of iron in your blood if you are to be kept quick and fit in the battle of life, overcome obstacles and know no such thing as failure. For several reasons lack of iron in the blood is more noticeable in the Spring than at any other time.

Besides iron, Peptiron includes pepsin, nux, celery and other tonics, nerve helps and digestives. It gives strength, color and body to the blood; reddens pale cheeks, steadies the nerves, improves the digestion, nourishes, and gives stamina to the whole body.

It is the tonic Spring medicine for you and for your family.—Advertisement.

I am not clear whether the whole thing should be conducted under the authority of the government—like the levying of taxes; but I do know that it is pretty hard on the average man, who is unselfish, and generous, and patriotic, to meet drive after drive, perhaps far beyond his financial means; and then have some other fellow, perhaps with greater resources, shirk or evade. I think you'd perform a great public service if you could solve both ends of this question. Sincerely,

"(Signed) HIRAM W. JOHNSON."

Senator Johnson raises the point that the cities of the community might be leveled somewhat after the fashion of apportioning taxes. His reply follows:

"My dear Mayor Davis:

"I read with great interest your letter of May 8 concerning various patriotic drives which have recently occurred. I am gradually reaching the conclusion that not only the particular matter that you suggest, whereby the community is not given credit for what its citizens do, should be remedied, but that we should devise some method for the equal distribution of the burden. Benefit Dance by Girls Comes Tonight

Red, white and blue are the colors which decorated Sacred Heart parish hall at Forty-first and Grove streets, for the dance which is to be given at that place tonight by Laurentian Council, No. 70, of the Young Ladies' Institute. The dance is being held for the sick benefit fund of their council. The girls have been aided

The boys in blue and khaki will be well represented during the evening, as a number of soldiers are expected to come over from the Presidio. Tickets have also been sold among the members of the Knights of Columbus, Young Men's Institute and the League of the Cross Cadets, besides to numbers of others.

SOCIETY CLUBS

For the month of roses—usually the roses month when the most beautiful and most elaborate of all the pretty weddings are staged—there are many gala events to be arranged. Most of them, however, dealing with one responsibility or another of the war work. The month will open with the dance at fresco for the benefit of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society of Alameda county, Saturday afternoon and evening, June 1, for which Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McKinnier Alexander of Piedmont have loaned their beautiful home and grounds. "The Gabes" is situated on one of the most wonderful home sites of Piedmont, overlooking San Francisco bay and the foothills. Its terraced lawns, inviting nooks and corners and spacious tennis courts are ideal as a background for such an event which doubtless will be attended by hundreds. There will be special music for the dancing and at the twilight hour supper is to be served in the garden. The benefit of the protracted court, this part of the program to be arranged by Mrs. Edward Bagg and her coterie of assistants, who will include a corps of the younger girls to wait on the guests. Mrs. Lulu Rued Webster is to arrange the music for the dance, while the dancing is to be under the supervision of Mrs. Walton Norwood Moore and Mrs. Herbert Hamilton Brown. To Mrs. Willard Williamson and Mrs. Wickham Havens have been assigned the booth from which beer and doughnuts are to be served. Mrs. Edson F. Adams will preside over the games for the entertainment of the guests. Mrs. Edward von Adelung has promised to provide the choice recipes of the younger girls to be used in the manufacture of these, while a pretty group of sub-debs will assist Mrs. Oscar Suto at the lemonade booth.

Miss Anna Florence Brown and Mrs. Charles Spook are among others who are arranging interesting details for the fête.

The purpose of planning the dance at this time of the year is to raise funds with which to send away to the country the little children who are victims of the dread disease and to give them a better start in life. It is a noble work and one which means so much for the helpless tubercular children. Each year the society has made a practice of establishing a summer camp, heretofore supported by subscription, but with so many demands urgent, the society has this year decided upon a large public gathering, with dancing the principal diversion.

Mrs. Frederick Eldridge Adams, who is a member of the board of directors of the Oakland Club, will leave on Monday for six weeks' trip to California. She will go direct to Kansas City to join her relatives, where she will be the housewife of her uncle, Emerson Whitte. One of the interesting trips will be a motor tour of the neighboring states. Mrs. Adams will return to California by way of Salt Lake City and the Grand Canyon, stopping there en route west.

Mrs. Walter J. Wilson is leaving this week for the east to spend the summer and on route there is to stop at Camp Lewis to visit her son, Nell Wilson, who has just entered the officers' training camp there. He was a former student of Stanford and Yale universities and so another star has been added to the service flag.

Two families in which congratulations are very much in order are those of the Leon Bocqueruz and the Lee Grays. The Bocqueruz family is very happy over the event of the arrival of a little daughter, born last week, while Mrs. Gray's little one is also a little daughter. Mrs. Gray was Miss Marie Butters before her marriage and is a sister of Mrs. Charles Teague of Fresno.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Kales (Marie Tyson) have taken possession of a pretty bungalow in Paris street, Alameda. They have been there about a month or two, their home not far from that of the George Tysons.

The headquarters of the Armenian and Syrian Relief in Thirteenth street is now open. A special appearance will be made Friday afternoon, when a benefit bazaar and tea will be held, and sharing in the afternoon's festivities will be the Navy League, with Mrs. Meyer presiding over their booth. Mrs. Leigh Whitcomb Smith is vice executive of the Navy League hereabouts, while Mrs. Henry Wetherbee

Health & Happiness

By Dr. Leonard Keene Hirschberg, A.B., M.A., M.D. (Columbia University)

"Fighters' Fatigue"

That pallid, lemon-yellow tint of the complexion, debility and shortness of breath which some persons afflicted with pernicious anemia exhibit, indicate occasionally what to look for. Many of its victims, however, cannot be discovered so easily. Modern methods of blood examination, indeed, are needed in any event. Thus the well-trained physician does not fall into the fallacious pit of "judging by appearances."

Professor Lewis F. Barker, a distinguished head of the department of medicine of Johns Hopkins Hospital, has lately evolved a most helpful mode of treatment for some of the sufferers of this malignant blood disorder.

Professor Barker usually insists that the victim of this strange, pernicious blood deficiency be placed in a private room in a hospital where the constantly required physical examinations and detailed laboratory tests are made with the least possible discomfort or exertion by the patient.

The lymph, blood, spinal fluid, gastric juice, kidney fluids, saliva and all other elements of the individual are carefully studied and a thorough search is also made for any spot where nests or colonies of infectious bacteria may lurk to pour forth poisons into the blood stream.

ROOTING OUT INFECTION.

In such an investigation the special domains of anatomy, physiology, bacteriology and other sciences of infection, such as the roots of the teeth, the nostrils, tonsils, bladder and other places, are closely examined.

X-ray pictures are made of the gums and teeth, stomach, lungs, kidneys and gall bladder. In any event, if any focus of infection is discovered, however trivial it appears, it must be surgically eradicated.

Professor Barker's experience with pernicious anemia points out that even when the red blood corpuscles are only 30 per cent of what they should be, the hemoglobin—the red coloring pigment in them—is 70 per cent below perfection, the victim of an anemia is in a state of collapse and the anesthetic, which generally leads to improvement, wonderfully well.

DIET VERY IMPORTANT.

There is usually an absence of acid in the stomach, hence one should eat only the most easily digestible food. The disinfected properties of the gastric juice are thus lost and more or less decomposition occurs.

For six days milk only is given in small frequent sittings. Then one should eat only the most easily digestible food. The disinfected properties of the gastric juice are thus lost and more or less decomposition occurs.

Twenty to thirty drops of diluted hydrochloric acid with each meal and a similar dose half an hour after meals makes up for the deficiency.

come before the California branch on Saturday. The one has to do with the increased postal rates and periodicals and the zone system and will be in the form of a protest against such. The second is a pledge to create public sentiment in support of the government trade and economic policies in reducing the demand for non-essentials. The third will also be in the form of a pledge, promising a support to legislation and law enforcement tending to establish a single moral standard.

Superintendent of Schools Fred W. Hunter and Mrs. Hunter, Dr. Loewenberg, Dr. and Mrs. Cary and Dr. and Mrs. Philip King Brown will be the guests of honor at the Saturday luncheon, following which an Americanization program will be presented before the important business session. "An Americanization Program for the Schools" will be the theme which Superintendent Hunter will discuss. Dr. Brown has named as his subject, "Nurses and the War." Dr. Loewenberg, formerly of Wellesley, is now connected with the faculty of the University of California in the philosophy department, will offer an address on "Three Ideals or Issues of the War."

The following candidates were offered for election by the nominating committee: President, Mrs. E. J. Mott, California; vice-president, Mrs. Mabel Pierce, Wellesley; recording secretary, Mrs. H. W. Whitworth, California; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. E. Brown, Kansas; business secretary, Mrs. A. H. Taylor, California; treasurer, Miss Emma Noonan, California; auditor, Miss Edith Slack, California; directors, Dr. Vida Volkhardt, California; Miss Winifred Barnes, California; Mrs. C. C. Hall, California; Mrs. W. J. Hall, California; can; counselors, Mrs. Frederick Faulkner, Stanford; Miss Salade Sturtevant, California; Miss Rosalind Keep, Miss and California; Miss Irene Cuneo, Stanford; Mrs. Gregory, Patsy Roberts and Ruth McBride.

Mrs. Frederick C. Turner, Dr. Ruth Rison Storer and Dr. Edith Williams have been added to the roll of life members in the California branch.

The work which was inaugurated in Oakland of making a survey of the crippled children to the end that some conclusion might be reached regarding their status in the community has been duplicated this spring in Chicago. It was Mrs. L. P. Crane who conceived the plan. A gathering of a census of the crippled boys and girls of school age who because of their physical limitations were often prohibited attendance in the classroom. The importance of the task was at once recognized by the Chicago district, Chicago Federation of Women's Clubs, which under an official body took census in many cities within its jurisdiction. The survey was conducted by the Chicago Federation of Women's Clubs, which under an official body took census in many cities within its jurisdiction. The survey was conducted by the Chicago Federation of Women's Clubs, which under an official body took census in many cities within its jurisdiction.

The inventory of crippled children in Chicago was made for practically the same reasons as inspired it in California. The definite purpose was to discover whether the children were getting the kind of education which would fit them to earn their living in later life, and whether they were covered by the city in the welfare drive. It has been imposed upon the Chicago women that all work is to be done in the home and that the maintenance of the child is among their patriotic duties. They are not waiting for cripples to return from the front to give assistance. They have begun to offer a practical educational and vocational aid to the children in their midst.

Milady's Sleeve in Infinite Variety

To the left is pictured the elbow, or kimono sleeve. A transparent sleeve in a satin waist is shown in the center picture and to the right is a sleeve of white organdy.

Never Before Were There So Many Styles

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW.

Never has there been such variety in the choice of sleeves. They are of every size and every length. In size they vary from those so tight that to bend the arm would seem to mean the bursting of the seam, to those which suggest floating wings, so loose are they. In length the choice lies all the way between a narrow extension of the shoulder—which only by courtesy could be called a sleeve—and those so long they almost cover the hand.

Some of the extremely voluminous sleeves are attached only at the armholes, or are caught together at the point inside the elbow. Others, not quite so full and of very sheer material, are gathered into a very narrow cuff, or else hang ungathered, the upper side only being fastened to a narrow band at the wrist. Many are of three-quarter length, not only in the filmy goods but in the most substantial material of tailored suits.

Many women scrub the neck with soap and hot water, dry it carefully and then think they've done all that is correct for the neck. The neck must be kept clean, and if it is not so, if you want your neck to be lovely, cleanse it in the following way:

Scrub the neck with a soft camel's hair brush, good castile soap and hot water.

Care and exercise will often work wonders.

Rinse and then dash cold water well over the neck. Rub with a good cold cream, beginning at the chin and rubbing around the neck downward. Remove the cold cream with absorbent cotton.

A good cold cream mixture is the following: Sweet oil of almonds 75 grains Virgin wax 20 grains Spermaceti 5 grammes Perfume

Mix all of these together and stir for 20 minutes. As the mixture cools add your favorite perfume and pour into jars, which should be kept tightly closed.

I've noticed that many women have the habit of carrying their heads either sideways or too far forward. Such posture destroys the beauty of one's carriage, and make the neck unsightly in the course of time.

The neck should be held in a very easy, fixed position. That isn't the beauty way. In the head is well poised and thrown out the head a little. The neck must at all times be flexible, for in its flexibility of motion it becomes expressive and adds to personal charm.

Exercise your neck if you wish it to be graceful and nicely rounded. It is very simple to bend the head forward and to lift it upward slowly 10 or 12 times each day, and yet this simple little attention will contribute a great deal to the beauty of the neck. It is an exercise that is very beneficial for the neck.

Seize your head around from the shoulders in a complete circle as many times as you can do it without discomfort. Better still, is this more difficult exercise.

Lie flat on the floor and raise and lower the head alone. Do this as often as you can. Perhaps at first you will not be able to do it more than two or three times, and as soon as you feel fatigued

How to Improve Your Neck

by LUCREZIA BORI

It is really an excellent thing that the fashions of recent years have discouraged the high-necked frocks, for it has given nature an opportunity. Necks cannot remain lovely or become beautiful if they're draped about with tight collars or stiff neckbands of any sort.

The tight collar not only causes some unsightly lines around the neck, but also destroys the texture and the color of the skin. If you must wear a collar, let it be one of lace or net or of some such fabric through which the air can circulate.

And remember never to wear a collar of any other color but white. You may be astonished to know that the skin as it perspires, absorbs the dyes of colored fabrics, which are both unwholesome and destructive to the beauty of the neck.

Many women scrub the neck with soap and hot water, dry it carefully and then think they've done all that is correct for the neck. The neck must be kept clean, and if it is not so, if you want your neck to be lovely, cleanse it in the following way:

Scrub the neck with a soft camel's hair brush, good castile soap and hot water.

Care and exercise will often work wonders.

These tight sleeves of course the armhole is very small. In other styles it is greatly increased, sometimes extending almost to the waistline.

The middle sketch shows a transparent sleeve in a satin gown, not very flaring about the cuff and again spreading out over the hand. It is caught just above the wrist with two buttons.

The elbow-length kimono sleeve—at the left—is cut in irregular form down the outside, is bordered with a bias band of contrasting color to match the rest of the robe, and is fastened in the middle with a large button.

The third sleeve—at the right—is suited to an organdy or other crisp summery material, being gathered into a tummy waist with upsweeping pleated frill at the top of the cuff and the top of the sleeve, which, by the way, is set in midway between elbow and shoulder.

You should stop. But if you can raise and lower the head about 10 times in this way it will help a great deal toward developing the beauty of the neck.

This position is very relaxing for the whole body if done correctly.

Garis' Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE MAY APPLES.

Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard S. Garis.)

"Don't you want to come for a walk with me, Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily Longears, the rabbit gentleman, of Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady, bungalow keeper one day, as he started out for a walk with her.

"Thank you," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I'd like to come, but the woodpile is so full of May apples that I can't get away from it."

"Oh, have no fear of that!" boldly and bravely cried Uncle Wiggily. "Those May apples are no danger. Come and have an adventure!"

"No," said the muskrat lady. "I'd like to, but I can't. I have to go to the bungalow to look after the May apples. Go off by yourself and have an adventure, and then this evening you can tell me all about it."

"I'll do more than that," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, as he hopped on to a moving picture show. "I'll tell you a story that I should go off every day, home and sweeps or dusts the bungalow. I'll surely take her to the movies."

So on hopped the bunny uncle, thinking of the little treat it was to give Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, when, all of a sudden, Mr. Longears came to a stop of green, grassy place, and there grew some plants with white, waxy blossoms on the stems.

"Hal! The mandrake blossoms," said Uncle Wiggily, for he knew what they were being a wise rabbit. "I'll just gather a bouquet of the blossoms and give them to Nurse Jane. She used to be pretty to put in a vase in the bungalow. I'll gather some."

Uncle Wiggily, and he began to gather the mandrake flowers, which were quite rare, each one growing between green leaves.

Uncle Wiggily had gathered quite a bouquet of the flowers, and he was thinking that perhaps Nurse Jane might want to wear some to the movies that night, when, all of a sudden, the bunny uncle was startled.

"It was a sort of sneezing laugh," said Uncle Wiggily. "I hope it isn't the laughing of Nurse Jane. That one bothered me."

"Hal! You're wrong, my friend!" said a sneering voice.

"No, it isn't," said the bunny uncle. "I'm not laughing. I'm just thinking of the May apples. You're wrong, my friend!"

"Wrong again!" said the voice, and the sneezing laugh came again. "You'll be surprised when you see them. You'll see them when you see them."

"My goodness me, makes alive and some toasted lollipops," cried Uncle Wiggily. "There are two of us! Two Skeezicks are we, and you've come to see!"

"Popped from behind my ears, and out they came from us, Uncle Wiggily," said the first Skeezicks—the one that had so long tried to get some of the bunny's ears. "I couldn't catch you with the Skeezicks. No, I and I will surely catch you."

"Well, now I don't know about that," said Uncle Wiggily, as bravely as he could. "I don't know about that. You let me go if I give you these mandrake blossoms," he asked, foxily.

"No, indeed," cried Skeezicks No. 1. "I should say not!" vociferated Skeezicks No. 2, which means he said it.

"Hal! Then will you let me go for these suddenly and bravely, and out they came from us, Uncle Wiggily, as the bad Skeezicks ran away, before you try to catch me again, you had better go to school and learn that May apples and mandrake blossoms are the same thing, and that May apples are fine for improving Skeezicks, though it isn't often that the apples and blossoms come at the same time. But there did, and they saved me from you had chaps."

And so the May apples had, and if the Skeezicks didn't run away, and if the water in the gold fish tank and boil the surdines for breakfast, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Welsh unit.

Unitarians Refuse to Greet Berlin Clergy

BOSTON, May 22.—Cries of "German propaganda," "sedition" and "insult to the flag" were the chief objections of the American Unitarian Association when a resolution was offered calling for a declaration of "Christian brotherhood" in a declaration adopted by the body.

The meeting adopted a resolution pledging the association's unstinted support of the government "in its endeavor to secure a complete victory for the cause of democracy."

Revelations of a Wife

by Adele Garrison

"NOTHING AT ALL."

It was a relief to get back to the living room after the episode of the pudding. Dicky ate his pudding with gusto, and I choked down some of mine, but Mrs. Graham sat in stony silence until we had finished.

Then Dicky, seemingly oblivious of the part he had played in upsetting matters, led his mother back to the living room. If she had been made ill by Dicky's disclosure that water had dropped from the ceiling on the pudding, she showed no evidence of the fact. The food she had eaten had revived her, and she moved about the apartment without leaning on Dicky.

"Your apartment is pleasant, if it is small and without elevator service," she observed.

I did not answer her. The remark had not been made directly to me, and I left the response to Dicky.

For the incident of the pudding had been the last straw. When she had made the insulting little speech concerning it, I had resolved that henceforth I would not speak to Dicky's mother, unless she directly addressed me, or unless I was compelled to ask her some questions as to her wants.

I had tried my best, I told myself, to treat my husband's mother with all kindness and respect. She had met my efforts with ill-concealed dislike and positive rudeness. Of course, I knew that she was intensely prejudiced against me. She had wished Dicky to marry a girl of her own choice, and she had become so incensed by his marriage to me that she had refused to come to the wedding.

Seeing her evident domination over Dicky, I wondered how he had ever gotten the courage to marry me against his mother's wishes. If he had been in the same city with her, I told myself bitterly, she could have saved her son from me.

And now I faced the prospect of becoming my husband's mother-in-law. I thought of the hot room in my heart. I would make a fight for my individuality, I resolved. Something told me that my best weapon would be silence, and a seemingly indifference to any disparaging comments.

HIS MOTHER'S MOVE.

I must have been thinking very deeply. Dicky's voice, hurt, displeased, sounded in my ears.

"Are you asleep, Madge? My mother and I are speaking to you and you do not answer her."

"I beg your pardon," I turned to her indifferently. "I did not hear you."

"I merely remarked that you must be tired of flowers to have so many of them at this time of the year. Are not the friends almost prohibitive?"

"On the contrary, they are remarkably reasonable for this season," I returned. "But I should imagine my mother, too, must have been bought by your honor."

"Oh! That was very nice of you, I am sure," she said. "The words were almost a sneer. I think Dicky noticed it, for he jumped up and, coming over to me, sat down on the arm of my chair and put his hand caressingly upon my shoulder."

"Madge has been planning for your coming for days, mother," he said. "She has worked like a Trojan."

"Surely that was quite unnecessary," she returned, and I saw her look with dislike at the affectionate tableau we presented.

The look stung me into an action which I have regretted many times since. I pushed Dicky away from me with an irritated gesture.

"Please leave me alone," I whispered. Dicky jumped up from the chair as if he had been shot, where he stood moodily looking down at the street below.

How I longed to run after him and beg his pardon, as he would have done for a similar exhibition of temper if we had been alone. But the presence of his mother restrained me. I had a sudden swift premonition that many quarrels would be left unrecalled if this presence in our home continued.

"JUST SEND KATIE."

By the time of her lips, I knew that Dicky's mother had seen and understood the little by-play. She said nothing, but after a moment's waiting she rose from her seat and moved to her son's side. She is a tall woman, almost as tall as Dicky, and she has a very good hand and a smooth hair. It was just what a carress as she must have given him years ago when he was a small boy and in need of comfort over some childish sorrow.

Dicky took her hand in his with a quick, impulsive gesture and laid it against his cheek. For several minutes they stood silently watching the street below. Then Dicky's mother moved restlessly.

"Are you tired, mother?" Dicky asked tenderly.

"Not only tired, but quite faint," she returned, and sank into a chair. Her face had the same white, drawn look it had when she arrived. I started up hurriedly.

"What can I get for you?" I asked anxiously.

"Nothing at all," she said coldly. "But, if you do not mind, I think I will go to bed." She turned to Dicky. "Daddy, be a good boy. I need nothing but a long rest. The journey has upset me, that is all. I will go to bed now, and stay there until tomorrow morning. I shall sleep straight through."

"If, however, I waken about dusk, will you help me with my tea?"

She did not glance toward me. I might not have existed as she talked to Dicky. He very wisely ignored her manner.

"Surely, mother," he said cordially. "Just call on me for anything you want. May I help you now?"

"No, just send Katie to me. She really does very well."

From her assured tone and manner, she might have been Katie's mistress for years, instead of a guest of less than a half-day. I knew it was petty and mean of me, but nothing about my mother-in-law so annoyed as did her assumption of authority. I jumped to my feet, my face flaming.

"Stay with your mother, Dicky," I said brusquely. "I will tell Katie she is wanted."

I was fast losing control of my nerves, just when I needed them most.

For Dicky had set to be told of Jack's letter, with its startling news, and I dreaded the way in which he would probably take it.

New Strength for Girls

Many young girls show plainly the results of the winter's war work, school work, or social activities. Their weakness, lassitude, and dull-eyed indifference to everything that requires effort, are Nature's warnings that nervous force is exhausted and vigor is at low ebb. The logical way to tone up the whole system is to reconstruct the blood from its very foundations.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

is especially valuable for this purpose. It creates new, sturdy red blood cells, which carry health, vigor, and vitality—in the form of life-giving oxygen—to all parts of the body and brain.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is a splendid general tonic and appetizer for the weak and run-down of all ages and conditions. Easy to digest, promptly assimilated by the blood, and exceedingly pleasant to taste. The medical profession universally prescribes Gude's Pepto-Mangan.

FRIENDLY WARNING—There are many imitations of Pepto-Mangan on the market, but you can be sure of getting the genuine if it bears the name "Gude" and is put up in the bottle and sealed package as pictured. Ask for it by its full name—Gude's Pepto-Mangan. For sale at all drug stores.

Pepto-Mangan is made only by M. J. BREITENBACH CO., New York Manufacturing Chemists

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

No crushing of frocks in suitcase—no musing of coiffure going down town. No waiting in reception room.

The inventory of crippled children in Chicago was made for practically the same reasons as inspired it in California. The definite purpose was to discover whether the children were getting the kind of education which would fit them to earn their living in later life, and whether they were covered by the city in the welfare drive.

It was Mrs. L. P. Crane who conceived the plan. A gathering of a census of the crippled boys and girls of school age who because of their physical limitations were often prohibited attendance in the classroom. The importance of the task was at once recognized by the Chicago district, Chicago Federation of Women's Clubs, which under an official body took census in many cities within its jurisdiction.

NORMA TALMADGE IS AT T. & D.

"By Right of Purchase," a stirring photodrama with a punch and replete with heart interest, brought Norma Talmadge back to the T. & D. Theater today in the greatest role the famous actress has portrayed. Incidentally, today's program, which also boasts of double attractiveness with Dorothy Phillips in "The Grand Passion," inaugurates a return to summer prices. Admission to the T. & D. Theater is now within the reach of every man, woman and child.

Today's program is exceptionally attractive. Mignon Laville, the French songbird and former war nurse, has met instantaneous success in the hands of T. & D. audiences. So great is the signal success that she achieved on the occasion of her initial appearance that her engagement is now an indefinite one. Those who would be thrilled by patriotic messages will find on this program a message from the Billy Sunday of Oakland's "four-minute" men. To hear MacLafferty speak is to be aroused as no other war talker has aroused the public to the human menace and the need for contributions to the Red Cross.

Allen Lane, the T. & D. theater's wizard organist, will be heard in a special organ recital for the balance of the week. Among his selections will be "Uncle Sam, Take Care of My Girl," Tickner's big orchestra will continue to enhance the realism of pictures with appropriate music and selections that should please every music lover.

DREAM DOLL ON FRANKLIN SCREEN

Starting today, the Franklin theater presents Mae Murray, the dream doll of the screen and one of the greatest fancy dancers on the American stage, in a special feature, made by her own company, entitled "The Bride's Awakening." By her winning smiles and cunning actions and mannerisms Miss Murray has won her way into the hearts of many picture fans and they have come to expect plays from her that are extremely out of the ordinary. In "The Bride's Awakening," Miss Murray shows herself up better than she ever has before, not even barring such successes as "Facts of Life" and "Princess Virtue."

This is the best thing that Mae Murray has ever done and all those who have followed her from the stage thus far through her screen career will be agreeably surprised. The basic thought of "The Bride's Awakening" is the new and eleventh commandment of household life: "Do whatever you please, but don't be found out."

On the same program with this picture Marguerite Wilson and Joe King will appear in "The Hand at the Window," a thrilling story of counterfeits versus detectives. This story is one of the most interesting detective stories ever written and was taken from "In the Spring," by John Morison, one of the popular magazine writers of the day.

"The Brat" Coming to the Auditorium

Oliver Morison's particularly successful New York comedy hit, "The Brat," by Maude Fulton will be the attraction at the Auditorium theater, for an engagement of four nights and two matinees, beginning Wednesday evening, May 23.

The most famous dancers the stage has ever known, was one of the biggest Broadway hits of the season past and comes to this city after a successful season's run at the Morisco theater, New York city, while it has also enjoyed particularly successful runs of four months in Chicago, three months in Boston and two months in Philadelphia.

Miss Fulton's appearance in "The Brat" is the first straight comedy in which she has ever done and should prove unusually interesting. Miss Fulton's ability both as an actress and author was one of the real sensations of the season last year in New York city.

Diving Marvel to Be Seen at Idora

Wilbert Cope, 3 years old, a diving marvel, will be the feature at Idora Park Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

He is a youngster who has broken all records for aquatic precociousness. He was swimming at the age of 15 months. And now at the age of 3 years he is proving a sensation. He does the 14-foot dive backward or forward, but his specialty is the Charlie Chaplin dive. In this he runs up the springboard with a Charlie Chaplin walk and flops over the top of the 12-foot board.

Wilbert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Raymond Cope of Stockton. The lad not only dives, but swims the various difficult strokes to the amazement of aquatic fans.

TARZAN SHOWS AT BROADWAY

Darwin was right, all right. But he never graded the degrees of descent. Edgar Rice Burroughs made some attempt at grading in his "Tarzan of the Apes," which is now in motion picture form at the Broadway theater. He runs the gamut this way—drunken sailors, brutal ship officers, slave traders and finally aristocrats. The ape really rank highest. Even the boy brought up by the apes ranks head and shoulders above his aristocrat relative. There are no class lines, no national lines, no mutual exploitation among our ancestors.

"Tarzan of the Apes" is a bully adventure. Wild beasts roam through the scenes, a kindly elephant takes the wild man upon his back; in short, mix Stevenson's "Treasure Island" with Captain Baker's African stories and the happy combination is struck. The joy of the film lies in its kindly wild life rather than its civilized brutality. And in putting Burroughs' story into the film the National Film Corporation has shown good sense of showmanship. "Tarzan" is better than most films which have been concocted for the screen, and credit must be given Scott Sidney, who staged it, and Isidor Bernstein, who edited it. Natural beauty, imagination and clean, free spirit make the film a delight.

YE LIBERTY SOON READY TO OPEN

The finishing touches are being put to Ye Liberty playhouse and when the theater re-opens on next Sunday with Orval Humphrey and Betty Brice heading an all new company in "The Man From Home," the regular patrons of the showhouse will be astoundedly surprised. The interior and exterior of the theater have been remodeled and redecorated and many changes have been made.

"The Man From Home" will serve to introduce a new stock company to be known as Ye Liberty players, composed of only dramatic artists. Some of those who will appear in the opening bill in Ben Erway, George P. Webster, Junda Due, Al Cunningham, Vana Calvert, Leo Crane, Rupert Drum and a score of other players well known to the play-going public.

For the first four weeks of his engagement Humphrey who is rated as one of the best eccentric comedians and character actors in America, will be featured in plays of his own selection. He has already announced his second offering as "A Pair of Sixes" that hilarious farce comedy. Humphrey will then step back into the cast, playing such parts as are suited to his histrionic abilities.

'RICH MAN, POOR MAN' AT KINEMA

Marguerite Clark is back on the job today, and all week at the Kinema, making life a little more cheery as usual in her screen adaptation of George Broadhurst's popular stage success, "Rich Man, Poor Man." Margie starts out as a little wait, working for her maintenance under the landlady of a cheap boarding-house. But she is only human at that, so can we wonder that when the young chap with whom she is randomly falling in love goes out to a party Margie cooks up a little party for herself all by her lonesome? Her efforts at doling up by means of party slippers from the wastebasket, a nondescript white dress and a ribbon of silver adorned with bouquets of violets which incidentally she transforms into "roses," must needs force a smile from the smileless.

On the same program a Mack Sennett comedy, "Saucy Madeline," is being shown, together with the latest news pictures and the current releases of the United States Government films, entitled "The Spirit of 1918." A Paramount Photograph with that clever little cartoon comedian, Bobby Burns, concludes an exceptional program at the Kinema.

THEDA BARA IN 'FORBIDDEN PATH'

The scales are evenly balanced by the features of the double program at the American, consisting of Theda Bara in "The Forbidden Path" and Tom Mix in "Six Shooter Andy." Music, in harmony with the dramatic productions, is provided by John Wharry Lewis and his orchestra, illustrations of the most recent public events are contained in an American News Weekly.

Theda Bara's portrayal of the part of Mary Lynde in "The Forbidden Path" bears the stamp of earnestness and faithfulness. Theda Bara is not a vampire in the picture. Rather is she sincere against, and her efforts are directed to revamp.

"Of all my parts, this one expresses with more fidelity my oft-expressed theory that no one can go wrong without some excuse," she said recently.

Tom Mix as Andy Crawford in "Six Shooter Andy" has a stirring role in this gold mining story of the frontier, during the days when brave and adventurous men were called upon to prove themselves against lawlessness. The play is built around a love theme greatly enhanced because the girl in the case has eight brothers and sisters, who are fatherless and motherless.

"Then and Now" Is Headline at Orpheum

The king is dead—long live the king! The famous Four Mortons, pre-eminent among America's dazzling features in vaudeville, are this week at the Oakland Orpheum. But this is the second edition. Time was when the Four Mortons troupe consisted of Sam, Kity, Paul and Clara. Paul Morton married Naomi Glass when he grew up, and came out this season in a skill of his own Clara Morton married also, and also is her own headliner in her own act. But they had two others waiting, for Martha and Joe, their brother and sister, act through school and are now in their places. Among the Four Mortons (second edition) are delightful vaudeville fans. For they are no whit less clever than their elders, and their offering at the Orpheum this week, "Then and Now," is one that the whole town's raving over.

J. K. Emmett, celebrated actor of many characters, is a feature at the Oakland Orpheum this week, with Mary E.

Ryan. Their whimsical novelty, "Wish-fulfillment," a new tour in it, too, and then there is the rest of the brilliant Orpheum bill to attract audiences this week.

Singer's Midgets Are Seen in New Features

A great theatrical attraction is holding the boards at Pantages Theater this week in the engagement of Singer's Midgets. So potent an attraction did the act prove last week that the management held it over for a second week and a capacity business is the result.

Backing up the midgets is to be found a corking bill of vaudeville. A great sketch showing the work of the secret service agents called "The Nation's Peril," Lew Wilson, a versatile musician and singer, Fisher and Gilmore, singers and dancers, and Madison and Winchester, a comedy duo, are on the bill. Another absorbing episode of the Boy Scout film concludes the program.

UPHOLD CIVIL SERVICE.

An ordinance has been introduced in the Oakland city council which aims at serious curtailment of the powers of the civil service board. Discussion of the proposal has been marked by considerable acrimony among municipal officials and by apprehension on the part of the people.

With regard to the personal and departmental quarrels among municipal officials THE TRIBUNE feels but slight concern. There is a larger and far more important question involved, however, in the present fight on the civil service board: Shall the merit system in the city government be broken down or be seriously impaired?

The people of Oakland have decreed that the employees of the city shall be taken out of politics and kept out of politics. Any step that runs counter to this popular decree is a backward step. The city cannot afford to take it. If the city commissioners are of the opinion that unfortunate appointments to the civil service board have been made there is another remedy than an ordinance robbing the board of its vital powers.

It is not necessary to destroy the safeguards against the evils of political patronage and preferment in the subordinate offices of the city government; against a return to the "spoils system"; against juggling with appointments and their salaries for special and selfish purposes.

The civil service idea is unassailably sound. It has come to stay in all intelligent modern communities. Its powers should be strengthened, not taken away. The merit system in local government must be maintained if the community is not to turn its back on progress.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

The Hanlon Shipbuilding Company has set a splendid example for all the other industrial plants in the country to follow in regard to the second Red Cross fund of $100,000,000. Every employee of the plant will give a day's pay. And "employees" includes everybody—President Hanlon, the skilled craftsmen, laborers, apprentices, clerks and stenographers. The Hanlon roster will bear opposite each name, "One day's service to the Red Cross and the soldiers and sailors at the front."

This is not quite all. The directors of the shipbuilding company held a special meeting and appropriated the total earnings of the concern for one day to the Red Cross, which will probably be a very substantial sum. In addition, the company band and the company baseball team has been proffered the Red Cross by President Hanlon for any purpose that may be designated in aid of the present campaign for funds. The Hanlon baseball team would like to play some other team for the benefit of the Red Cross. It will meet any team in the State, amateur or professional, but probably prefers the Moore & Scott or the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company's squad. The Hanlons are a mighty good aggregation of baseball players and will put up an interesting contest.

This industrial plant has shown the way to become a 100 per cent institution with reference to the Red Cross fund. It will give money from the pockets of every employee, and it stands ready to help others to give and to make giving easy for those of tight dispositions.

Any concern or any individual that wants to be on record and to enjoy the satisfaction of helping his country and humanity cannot afford to hesitate. This is the week for action and the contributions ought to be in early.

THE COMING GREAT BATTLE.

All developments and reports from Europe indicate that the second great effort of the German offensive will be started within the next few days and that it will speedily reach mammoth proportions. The Hun leaders have been reorganizing and concentrating their forces ever since they were stopped by the French and English on the Armentieres front three weeks ago. They may be expected to make a greater effort to "break through" than that which they started on March 21. They considered that sufficiently powerful to land them in Paris by April 1st.

But there is more solid ground for the confidence that the Allies will hold the Boche in the next offensive than was justified regarding the first. The Allied armies are much stronger than they were two months ago; the relative strength of the Allies and the enemy has improved in favor of the Allies. The position of the latter as regards terrain and tactical advantages is better than it was when Hindenburg was stopped at Mount Kemmel, Ypres and Givenchy, Arras and Amiens.

Meantime the ranks of the Allies have been substantially increased by American forces. The cheering news was published in yesterday's TRIBUNE that the first field army of the United States has been formed. It consists of two divisions of three army corps each, with the requisite units of heavy artillery, field artillery, signal battalions, cavalry, pioneers and airplane squadrons—over 200,000 in all.

This is a most important contribution to the Allied defenses. No one can say, nor should venture to say, that this force will turn the tide of the next great battle on the western front; that would seem to detract from the glory of the heroic deeds performed by the British and French troops during the most critical period of the German offensive. But we are justified in hoping that in conjunction with our brave allies, "fighting with their backs to the wall," this first army, together with other units of American soldiers brigaded with the English and French, will serve to turn the tide of conflict; that it will cause the offensive to shift to the Allied armies and start the Boche backward to Berlin.

SUFFRAGE IN THE SENATE.

The equal suffrage amendment continues to hang fire in the Senate. A round-up of the suffrage forces was made on May 10th, but when the proponents of the amendment found they had not mustered sufficient strength to "put it over" they decided to wait for a more auspicious occasion. It seems to be no easy matter to get a sufficient number of senators favorable to the amendment present and a sufficient number of those opposed to it absent at the same time.

An extract from the Congressional Record of May 10th may be informative and not at all uninteresting. It shows particularly that some of the senators have not been frightened from their habit of levity in the face of important questions. It discloses also that some very old-fashioned ideas prevail among certain of the Southern members as to the repository of the right of woman suffrage and the manner in which that right ought to be extended:

Mr. Reed of Missouri: "When the next notice is given that we will vote on a given day, as the senator has promised, will it be understood then that the notice is upon the condition that we will vote provided the senator has enough votes to win; and if he has not, we will not vote, as appears to be the case today." (Laughter.)

Mr. Jones of New Mexico: "The remark of the senator from Missouri is very entertaining, as usual. Answering it seriously, however, I desire to say that notice will not be given unless we feel reasonably assured that we have votes enough to carry the joint resolution, and that when notice is given the motion will be made, unless something occurs in the interim such as has happened since the last notice, which would warrant the committee in deferring action."

Mr. Weeks: "I want to ask the senator if he can give the Senate any assurance as to whether the corridors of the Senate will be flooded with attractive lobbyists until he is ready to call up the joint resolution?" (Laughter.)

Mr. Jones of New Mexico: "Mr. President, I sincerely hope they will, and I not only hope that, but I hope that the citizens in the States represented by senators who are disposed to vote against this motion will make it so warm for such senators that they will not dare to vote against the proposed constitutional amendment when it comes up for consideration and action."

Mr. Borah: "I wish to say to the senator from New Mexico in regard to this question of 'making it warm' that there are some senators on this floor who have been advocating woman suffrage for the last twenty-five years, long before the late New York election. Those senators have some convictions of their own. They believe each State should settle the matter for itself and are opposed to forcing it upon States that do not want it or by reason of peculiar local conditions are not prepared for it. I say, therefore, in answer to the senator's suggestion, that no amount of telegrams which can be poured in here will have any effect upon the senator from Idaho. Upon this subject he has views which are not subject to change."

Mr. Smith of Georgia: "I wish to suggest to the senator that whenever the people of the State in part represent desire suffrage, they will not need an amendment to the Constitution to obtain it. Our legislature meets in the summer; and, if they desire woman suffrage, the question can be submitted to the people of Georgia, and this fall they will obtain it, without any interference with their wishes, through national legislation. If they do not wish it, I prefer to leave them to their preference."

Mr. Martin of Virginia: "I ask the senator to yield to me for just a second. I simply desire to say that I would be delighted to see a referendum of the women of Virginia alone, and I would be glad to have the women of Virginia determine this matter for the State of Virginia. Wherever I am satisfied that the majority of the white women of Virginia desire to vote, I will support the proposed constitutional amendment; I will vote to give them the vote. I repeat, I would be delighted to see a referendum, not of the men, but of the women alone, and I will follow the wishes of the women, regardless of what the men think and say about it."

Mr. McCumber: "Mr. President, a parliamentary inquiry."

The Vice-President: "The senator from North Dakota will state his parliamentary inquiry."

Mr. McCumber: "I desire to inquire what matter is here before the Senate now."

The Vice-President: "There is nothing before the Senate so far as the chair is aware."

Mr. McCumber: "Then I ask for the regular order."

This brief symposium of senatorial views shows that some members of the upper chamber in Congress are yet so unimpressed with the equal suffrage amendment that they make of it recreative diversion from the harassing labors of war legislation, and that the Vice-President may be so heartless as to declare, with reference to the subject, "There is nothing before the Senate." Such a state of mind does not promise inevitable success for the cause.

Fourteen persons were killed and twenty-five injured by a tornado which struck Bloomfield, Nebraska. Of the dead twelve were women and children. The morals and intelligence of a Nebraska tornado seem to be about on a par with Hun airplanes and submarines.

The coming to this country of Mr. Alexander Kersky, for a brief time premier in the Russian government, has a unique interest only. His is a rare specimen of the mind that could not comprehend the necessity of controlling the fools and knaves in his own country in order to defeat the outside enemies of his country.

NOTES and COMMENT

In knitting a sweater in six hours and fifteen minutes the patriotic lady of this city acquires a fame alongside of that of other expert who clinched so many bewildering thousands of rivets in a given time. It all counts in the general effort to whip the kaiser.

For three weeks while Hindenburg's drive was on in the west, not a ship left this country with any load except soldiers and their equipment. As a result food ran low in those countries depending on the United States for supplies. It was the greatest movement of armies that the world ever knew; but now that the emergency for men is not so acute, the cargoes are to be more varied until the food supply is replenished.

It is singular how lax we have been. There is nothing more reasonable than that those who are entrusted with the task of instructing the young in public institutions of learning should not only be citizens, but should be obsessed by known patriotic impulses. That such has not been the case is shown by the frequent disclosures as to teachers in schools, and even in universities supported by general taxation, performing by word and deed in an undoubted unpatriotic manner. We should see to this hereafter.

The price of wool has been limited by the War Industries Board, but not that rare consignment from Washington, part of the clip from the sheep which browsed on the White House lawn. That is to go for what it will fetch, and bids for it will be received by the Governor at his office in Sacramento up to and including May 27.

The question has been raised by one of those inquiring people, "How old is the ocean?" The same query was made as to Ann a while back, and with much the same pertinency. The age of the ocean is not apropos of anything that is going on just at this time.

It used to be insanity when a person was guilty of a crime that was not to be defended on lawful lines. Now it is "mental defect," and the culprit is gravely considered by men of medical science, who sometimes talk of surgical treatment to correct him.

The conditions will be much ameliorated if the deposed czar is permitted to retire to Switzerland. He will be free of surveillance and will be nearer to the things that may happen.

There are signs that the Government attitude toward combinations, especially industrial combinations, is undergoing a change. The failure to dissolve the United Shoe Machinery Company is in evidence, but the attitude toward railroads is much more significant. But a short time ago government was compelling lines to break away from each other. Now the desirability of their combining is seen.

The cool confession by the automobile murderer as to a set of rules under which he operated suggests what should be done with him as soon as it can be decently got around to.

The cans and the space between the mattresses have so frequently been demonstrated as insecure receptacles for money that the wonder is that anybody should persist in using either. Any hiding place, by the way, is unfeasible when there is such activity in patriotic drives.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

The price of peas went down to $2 and $2.12 per 75 pound sack last Saturday, and the Bank of Hayward and the Review immediately telegraphed to Food Administrator Merritt in San Francisco to find out if some relief could not be secured, as many local growers threatened to let the balance of the crop rot on the ground before selling for those prices. It is not known what effect the telegram had, but on Monday the price jumped up to $2.50 and it has remained steady ever since. With picking costing $1.00 and sacks 16c each there was no profit for the grower—Hayward Review.

The wild flower fete was appreciated as much for its lecturers as its floral specimens. This is decidedly complimentary in view of the enormous value placed by the government upon the bee nectar and wild forage. If the fete did nothing more than to prompt the writing of a book by George Wharton James and Mrs. Bertha Rice it will have succeeded.—San Jose Mercury-Herald.

Ranchers are kicking about paying $3.50 and $4 a day, board and room included, for farm labor. Until Uncle Sam can get the time to regulate farm labor wages we may expect still further increases, so why grumble. We believe the best means of encouraging the farmer is not by means of farm loans but by a solution of the farm labor problem.—Marysville Appeal.

Well, well, well! If there isn't Deputy Clerk Florence Danforth, already noted as the champion woman hiker of Northern California, singing "I Love You, California," and singing it beautifully, at the Bidwell Bar monument dedication. Talk about versatility!—Chico Enterprise.

If William Smith should happen to be killed in this war and the Government fail to mention his place of residence in the casualty lists, there are apt to be 1500 wives, families or relatives claiming his insurance. This is not because William is a bigamous gentleman, but because there are now 1500 William Smiths serving in Uncle Sam's army.—Stockton Record.

THE EMBLEMS.

The iron cross an emblem is! (And O, the heaps of slain!) The Hun would crucify mankind Upon this Cross of Pain. The brave Red Cross lifts broken men And makes them whole again. Give of your store, that those who fought May not have fought in vain! TORREY CONNOR. Oakland, May 19.

TODAY 20 YEARS AGO

John H. Hickey lost his life and 200 passengers narrowly escaped death when the tender, engine and first coach of a narrow gauge train overturned when going over a newly filled in section of the mud flats between the narrow gauge mole and Oakland. The breaking down of the locomotive's machinery was said to have caused the accident.

Among those who enlisted in a troop of Oakland light cavalry, organized as a home guard and for an emergency in active service, were Richard B. Ayer, H. S. Fugh, Abe P. Leach, Harry W. Thomas, Charles F. Pugh, Marston Campbell, Dr. J. J. Medros, J. Sherman McDowell, B. F. Boyden, A. A. Moore Jr., Frank C. Jordan, Harry St. Le Farr, George S. Pierce, F. C. Watson, R. A. Jackson, H. E. Lombard, P. C. Black, E. C. Leffingwell, Frederick C. Clift, Clarence Cromwell, Joseph L. Travis.

THE SPIRIT IS UNCONQUERABLE.

He rode with bridle-reins flung free Recklessly over the saddle-tree. Nor checked his courser's headlong stride At thorn-laced thickets or chasm wide. His spirits leaped when great pines roared, And, ripping the gorges, torrents poured; Nor ever when age and its shackles came, Did the heart within him grow old and tame. And yet those hard givings held him fast, When out of the clouded pagan past The Hun's infernal war-cry rose. Against mankind as common foes, For his years were scored against him then.

Thus forced aside by younger men, He prayed while fire his heart's core burned, That the hands of time could be backward turned, And again where the rattling quick-fires raved He could ride in the lead though it meant his grave.

I read in your interesting paper, which is certainly a "live wire," "Why not name or give a name to this island of ours that we are so wisely turning over to the government?"

I have a suggestion I would like to offer. It certainly can harm no one, if it gets no further.

Why not have a Monument of Liberty in our midst? Call the Island "Liberty Island." For surely it is going to stand for liberty, in us sending forth its units for that great bridge to France.

I am sure we all would be proud and happy to leave such a monument to our children of our faith and love for all we are fighting for.

A FLATFOOTED WALKER

United States Senator Howard Sutherland of West Virginia, tells a story about a mountain youth who visited a recruiting office in the senator's state for the purpose of enlisting in the regular army. The examining physician found the young man sound as a dollar, but that he had flat feet.

"I'm sorry," said the physician, "but I'll have to turn you down. You've got flat feet."

The mountaineer looked sorrowful. "No way for me to get in, then?" he inquired.

"I guess not. With those flat feet of yours, you wouldn't be able to march even five miles."

The youth from the mountains studied a moment. Finally he said: "I'll tell you why I hate this so damned bad. You see, I walked right on to one hundred and fifteen miles over the mountains to get here, and gosh, how I hate to walk back!"—Everybody's Magazine.

WORLD RIVET TITLE HELD IN OAKLAND

The world's riveting record, which in the past forty-eight hours has been transferred from England to this country, was shattered to bits at the plant of the Moore Shipbuilding Company yesterday, when Tom Horn, said to be the largest mechanic on the coast, drove 5620 rivets in nine hours, or at the average rate of 10 2/3 rivets a minute. Horn is seven feet tall and performed the astounding feat with only three helpers.

Horn drove rivets so fast that it took two men with shovels to feed them to him. The rivets were driven with a huge compressed air "bull-gun" which hung from a crane. At Horn's elbow stood two oil blast furnaces for heating the rivets. Members of the United States Shipping Board, officials of the company, fellow-riveters and scores of interested workmen watched the contest, which started at 8 o'clock.

"LET HER GO."
At that hour Horn looked over his rivet gun, saw that his helpers were in place and tested his air.

"Let her go," he said.

The men behind him threw the red-hot rivets out of the furnace in shovelful on the steel plates which Horn was riveting. A third stood by rivets on end and dropped them into the holes. And Horn, hovering above the rivet with his ready gun, swung the huge hammer into place and twisted on the air, and with a roar it went home—another pin in the Hun war coffin.

Horn went into the riveting driving contest for a world's record when he heard that the prize of $25 offered by Lord Northcliffe, owner of several London newspapers, for record-breaking driving was to go to a Britisher employed in a Clyde shipyard.

HOW IT STARTED.
"Rats," said Horn. "There isn't a man in the world that can beat me at that job." That is how the contest started.

While Horn was making preparations for his "rivet drive," Charles Knight, a negro, employed at the plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at Sparrow's Point, Md.,

Soldiers Face Only One Foe in France Mother of Trooper Has Message For All

Men Are Morally as Safe in France
as at Home

By RHETA CHILDE DORR.

On the lapel of my coat I wear a little pin, a pin with a single star ruby red on a bar of white.

My son is a member of the American Expeditionary Force in France. Hundreds of thousands of American women wear pins like mine. Some have two stars, three, even four, and every one covers a heart heavy with anxiety and foreboding. That little service pin which mothers wear, fathers too, sisters, sweethearts, broke the previous English record by driving 4875 rivets in nine hours.

"I can beat that, too," said Horn, when he learned that Chairman Hurley had cabled Lord Northcliffe that the first international rivet-driving prize had been won by Knight.

So at 8 o'clock yesterday morning Horn started driving rivets. Fellow-workmen quit their jobs to watch the contest. They kept tabs with card and watch. With the precision of a machine Horn smashed rivet after rivet of the "bull" type into place, never missing a one.

At 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon he broke Knight's record and at the end of nine hours he had broken all world records by hammering home 5620 rivets, and all of them perfect.

Horn drove 4429 rivets seven-eighths countersunk and 1191 seven-eighths snap.

When they notified him that his time was up Horn straightened his back and rubbed his arms.

"Wonder how many I can drive tomorrow," he asked.

Shipbuilders declare that an increase of five rivets per gang per hour in the shipbuilding operations would mean the building of a 10,000-ton freighter every ten weeks.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—A new world's riveting record—5620 in nine hours—was announced by the shipbuilding board this afternoon. The new mark, beating the former figure of 4875, was made in the yards of the Moore Shipbuilding Company at Oakland, Cal., by Tom Horn, with a crew of two heaters and one holder on.

Rheta Childe Dorr

wives, is a symbol of sacrifice. It should be something more than that.

My star has come to mean love of country far surpassing the mild patriotism of other days. It means confidence and courage for whatever in these tragic times I shall need courage. It means pride in the young manhood of America and hope unbounded for the future of America, which lies in their hands.

Before I went to France I wore my service pin for one soldier—my son. I wear it now for the American army. If I can, by writing of that army as I have just seen it in France, lessen a little for other women the burdens of anxiety and dread I shall count my journey worth while.

I went to France as a correspondent, a reporter, to write about the war. I hope that my editors' confidence in me was not entirely misplaced and that I did not quite fall down on my job. But what I experienced in France and what I brought out with me were not exactly what I had expected. I went to France as a correspondent, deeply interested in my work, but very soon after I arrived and

Has Talked to Thousands of Warriors at Many Places

almost with my first contact with our marvelous new army I forgot all about my work. I forgot that I was in France after my journalistic duties.

I forgot that I was a correspondent. I was conscious only that I was a mother. The mother of a boy in France. I was one in heart with a million other American women. I have native work ready to know all this about our soldier, and I believed that the other women would like to know about their own.

I discovered that try as I might to think of armies, strategies and diplomats, the only thing that vitally concerned me in France was to find out how my son was faring, and in doing so I was finding out the things that other mothers wanted to know about their boys.

Where they are, how they live, who their comrades are, how they work and play, what they are learning, how they get along with their strange new neighbors, the French people, and what the war is doing to their minds and souls, as well as their bodies. I wanted to know all this about our soldier, and I believed that the other women would like to know about their own.

The first thing I want to say about my army is that the men are morally as safe in France as they could possibly be at home. I know this. I made it my particular business to know it.

I spent three months in France, traveling most of it in the consular territory occupied by the American forces. I visited something like twenty-five camps, large ones and immense ones, where the men are training, where they are being indoctrinated in special lines of fighting, where they are at work building miles of wharves, warehouses, cold storage plants, barracks and hospitals, where they are laying railroads and dredging rivers; where they are performing the most varied and heroic tasks necessary to the life of an army far removed from its base.

ONLY THE ONE FOE.
I met and talked with thousands of soldiers in their camps, in Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross canteens, in many ancient towns of Central France. I saw our men disembarking from their transports, and I saw them tramping through ice-cold mud to the front-line trenches. I talked with them in their billets in lonely little villages of the north, and in vacation cities of the south. I have visited American soldiers in hospitals and I have knelt beside their graves.

Our soldiers have only one enemy, and that is the Germans.

That enemy they must fight and conquer, and we over here must steel our hearts to the sacrifices, the suffering and the maiming that are absolutely inevitable and will have to be borne. The casualty lists, every day growing a little longer, remind me of the lives of our boys. What all the people of all the warring nations have endured, we shall have to endure. It is the world's pain and we cannot escape it.

What we Americans have to help us bear what is coming in the next few months is the knowledge that our losses are going to be as few as possible. Life is to be safeguarded as far as human science can devise. Our army is organized for that. Men are not to be sacrificed unnecessarily. The best science in the world is being mobilized to save suffering and to heal wounds. Sickness and accident are being guarded against. Drunkenness and immorality are under strictest ban.

Much of this I was privileged to hear from the man who perhaps more than any other individual is responsible for the lives and the souls of our men in France, General Pershing. I saw him twice, once briefly in Paris, where he talked to me five minutes before leaving for an allied war council at Versailles, and once at length in his headquarters in a quaint old town which is the general headquarters of the army of the United States.

General Pershing is the best formal of any great officer I have ever seen, with the notable exception of "Papa" Joffre, but generals are all very important personages and have to be addressed with circumspection. I wanted very much to say to General Pershing, but of course I didn't, that after seeing him I felt a whole lot easier about my special soldier. A more human commanding officer, more concerned about the last detail of the life of the enlisted man, I am sure never lived. He spoke of the soldiers as a father speaks of his sons, with pride and passionate concern.

"They are the best in the world," he said, and he added that although our talk was private and that he could not be quoted, I was at liberty to repeat these words: "Our soldiers are fine men, clean, strong, intelligent, and they will make magnificent fighters. Tell the people at home, especially the mothers, that they can be proud of their men. Tell them that almost without exception their behavior is beyond criticism. Tell them that from me."

Proud of their commander also may the American people be, and over and above all, proud of the cause for which the American soldiers fight and for which they are ready to die. Not in the whole history of the world has a more righteous war been fought. I do not think the majority of Americans yet dream of the depth of depravity contemplated by the men who brought about the war. We have heard of German atrocities and we have shuddered at the recital.

PLAN IS ESSENCE OF ALL.
But the plan and object of this war on the part of those Prussians who are responsible for it constitute the worst atrocity of all. For the plan was the murder of Christian civilization and the object was the enslavement of mankind.

I have seen some of the effects of a partial success of the German war lords' plan, and I, the mother of a soldier, at this very hour in deadly peril of his life in the Toul sector, say to the mothers of other soldiers that I would be ashamed to have him anywhere else. Not many weeks ago I saw him for a short hour, a simple enlisted man in a humble post of duty. The spring wind blowing over the devastated and ravaged plains of France bore the roaring of artillery plainly to our ears. Every day since then those guns have roared nearer, and now that part of France is closed to civilians.

The next message that comes out of the sector where the Americans are fighting will bring mourning and tears to many women. And yet I can truthfully say that I would be happier to have my son dead in France, sleeping in a soldier's grave beyond the sea, than to have him alive and safe, shirking his duty in a bullet-proof job at home.

I do not believe that in the years to come there is going to be much happiness for the men who are shirking, nor for the women who may be encouraging

FACES THEFT; BIGAMY, SPY ACCUSATIONS

Convicted of the theft of $700 from the Hofbrau Cafe where he was employed as steward, accused of bigamy and with the possibility for the death of his alleged unlawful wife, who committed suicide when he was exposed, taken by the Federal authorities on a Presidential warrant for alleged spy activities and turned over to Sheriff Frank Barnett to be held to answer to the Alameda county court for violation of probation, Hans Von Bradow is in the county jail awaiting arraignment before Judge James G. Quinn and possible sentence to San Quentin.

Von Bradow denies that he added bigamy to his other offenses, but admitted that he was supposed to be the husband of the Los Angeles woman, Mrs. Gertrude Catalague. Deputy Sheriff Eatchner from Los Angeles, who says he is familiar with all of Von Bradow's conduct, claims to have seen the marriage license secured at the time Von Bradow and the woman were married. Von Bradow likewise denies that he has a wife in San Francisco, but admits that she too is "supposed to be" his wife.

The Los Angeles woman conducted an employment bureau and it is charged that Von Bradow took advantage of the institution to further alleged pro-German propagandist activities. It is charged that he sent as help into hotels and homes, people who were instructed to secure information that would be useful to the enemy and to plan a wholesale poison plot of prominent people.

When he was taken on a Presidential warrant charging him with such conduct, the woman who was supposed to be his illegal wife, overcame by the disgrace of it, killed herself by inhaling gas, leaving a note in which she pledged her good faith, and fidelity to the United States.

Asked as to whether he has any friends in Oakland, Von Bradow said that they were all in San Francisco for the duration of the war. He made restitution of the $700 stolen from the Hofbrau, and says that the friends who assisted him to do that are now on Angel Island.

After his conviction on the theft charge, in 1916, Von Bradow was given probation and for several months reported regularly, according to Probation Officer Leonard Corbett. Then he asked permission to go to old Mexico on a business trip, since which time the Alameda county authorities lost track of him. Reports came that he was active in the country and that he was wanted by the Federal authorities, who three weeks ago took him into custody in Los Angeles.

them to shirk. The shirkers are going to play a very pitiful part in the national life of this country after the war. The men who come home will be the rulers of America's future destiny. They will be the strong builders of our greatness. They are learning in this war how to build.

SPEEDING EASY WHEN SPEED IS TO BE SHOWN

Auto salesmanship in Alameda county may be classed as a hazardous occupation if prospective buyers insist on demonstrations of the speed possibilities of cars. In imposing stiff fines on three auto salesmen who fell into speed traps while demonstrating their cars could go more than fifty miles an hour, Judge John G. Matton of Centerville threatened to send similar offenders to jail in future. The trio of salesmen speeders were, S. Brown, 402, Thirty-fifth street, fined $75; C. D. Newell, 1233, hotel, $25; Dan Shortz, San Francisco, $50.

Base Damage Suit On Death of Boy

Twenty-five thousand dollars damages for the death of their son, Alfredo is claimed in a suit filed today in the office of County Clerk George E. Gross by Mary and Manuel Brito against the Southern Pacific company. Young Brito was killed in an accident occurring May 22, 1917, it is alleged. He was crossing Seventh street when he was hit by a train.

OAKLAND SHIP IS WRECKED OFF ALASKA

PORTLAND, Ore., May 22.—Information was received here that the ship Tacoma, owned by the Alaska Packers' Association of Oakland, sank after being wrecked by ice in the Alaskan waters in Bering Sea off the Ushak river yesterday. The crew was saved, it is understood.

The Tacoma's gross tonnage was 1738 and she was built in 1881. She was of 222 feet length, 41 breadth and 17.7 depth.

The Star of Chile and the Centennial, also owned by the Alaska Packers' Association of Oakland, were reported gone ashore in the ice jams without loss of life. The W. B. Flint also in the Salmon Packers' trade went ashore about ten days ago off Alaska.

DOCTOR VAN DYKE SCORES 'OBJECTOR'

Scoring the "conscientious objector," who, he said, "ought to set up his own private army and navy," Dr. Henry Van Dyke, former ambassador to Holland, and now a United States naval officer, last night voiced a plea for loyalty in the present struggle of America against Kaiserism.

Dyke spoke before a large audience at the Auditorium Theater, his subject being "Our country's Conscience in this War." The address, besides being a vigorous plea for loyalty, was a detailed recital from personal observation of the former diplomat, of the atrocities of the Germans on general war fronts.

"Some say we need ships to win the war," said the speaker. "Some say we need money or men. What I need is to have the country thoroughly awakened to the situation, that is why I am here tonight. I come with a message of moral purpose."

"Have you ever met a conscientious objector? I am one. But my conscientious objection to fighting is not so great as my conscientious objection to tyranny and slavery, and I am willing to fight on my conscience as long as there is a drop of blood left in my body. I object to the shriveled conscience that sets its puny body and soul against the national safety. Cromwell and Pym; George Washington, Abraham Lincoln; Woodrow Wilson—they are all conscientious objectors. In the name of this big class of conscientious objectors we are fighting this war."

Van Dyke told in detail of Hun atrocities he had witnessed at the front, and showed the German Lusatia medal, stricken off before the ship was sunk, as comprehensive proof that the deed was plotted far ahead. He told of the bombing of London, the burning of Belgium, the Germans were being treated by the allies as tenderly as their own injured. He told of Germans crucifying Belgian babies and other atrocities that came under his official notice while at The Hague. He urged the ferreting out of spies and prompt action against them. He recited in detail how America was forced into the war.

"And would you meet a people like these Hung about a peace table to talk peace?" he asked. "No, a thousand times no! Not until they are brought to their knees; until the German nation is made harmless for fifty years to come."

The speaker was introduced by Professor Henry Morse Stephens of the University of California, who told of his achievements in educational and diplomatic work. The lecture was given under the auspices of Paul Elder.

TECH HIGH SHOW FRIDAY EVENING

Students of the Oakland Technical High School will present their spring dramatic show in the Technical Auditorium on Broadway, Friday night. The program will consist of four one-act plays, the feature being "The Red Cross," a patriotic spectacle, written by Miss Jessie Dalton, a student.

Owing to the fact that the school has been occupied with war work, this is the one important public event of the semester. A company of the locally famous "Tech Chorus" will be included in the cast, as well as numerous school celebrities. Thelma Melick, Helen Bronson, Helen Love, and Frances Brown will represent the Red Cross, Liberty Bonds, and Thrift Stamps, along with various other patriotic institutions.

DAVID KING GAINS SIXTEEN POUNDS

"I'm Glad to Tell Everybody What I Think of Tanlac," Says Machinist.

"The best proof I can give that Tanlac was the right thing for me is the way it has relieved my suffering and built me up," said David D. King, a well known machinist and valued employee of the Pacific Coast Steel Company, living at 5523 Alki avenue, Seattle, Wash., recently.

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and forty pounds," Mr. King continued, "but I now tip the beam at one hundred and sixty-six, making a net gain of sixteen pounds, and anyone who knew my dreadful condition can readily see the change this medicine has made in me."

"I have had a weak stomach nearly all my life and, then, about three years ago, I had a spell of typhoid fever which kept me down in bed for sometime and, of course, left my whole system in a badly weakened condition."

"I have been up a while and down awhile in poor shape to do anything. My food would not digest as it should, my stomach cramped and pained me a great deal and I suffered a good portion of the time with headache. I had to be very careful of my diet and what I did eat had to be specially prepared. My back hurt me dreadfully, my kidneys bothered me constantly and I couldn't sleep at all well. I could get nothing to turn the tide for me and I lost weight and strength all the time."

"I finally resorted to Tanlac and I had seen it so highly endorsed, and I tell you it has been a great thing for me. The first few doses made such a difference in my feelings that I was going to do the work. I am just getting my third bottle now and can eat just any thing I want. Everything I eat seems to digest perfectly and I don't have any more pain or cramps in my stomach and I am picking up strength all the time. The pain has all left my back, my kidneys don't bother me any more and I sleep just fine every night. As I said, I have gained sixteen pounds already, so you may know by that what the work Tanlac has done for me. I couldn't fail to appreciate such wonderful results and I am glad to tell everybody what I think of Tanlac."

Tanlac mentioned in the above testimonial bears the name of C. F. Willis and the Cooper Medicine Co., and is sold in San Francisco and Oakland in The Owl Drug Co. stores only.—Advertisement.

BOSTON DENTAL CO.,
1108 WASHINGTON STREET,
EAST OAKLAND 7 to 12, Sundays 9 to 12 a.m.

Walter Leimert, local realty expert, is supposed to know the name and location of every street in Oakland. This faculty of his is one of the marvels of brokers who know him; but Edward Field, industrial expert, managed to hand him a new one the other day.

"Quick—where's Hughes avenue?" he asked.

"No such street!" responded Leimert.

"Sure there is!" insisted Field. A bet was made and a map produced. Sure enough, nestled on a hill in East Oakland was "Hughes avenue." It is a blind street, half a block long. No one but the postoffice ever heard of it before—and that's the reason for Field's new hat.

HIS FINGER WAS WORN OFF

There is a conductor on the Telegraph-avenue line who has one finger off—the right forefinger. Notwithstanding his shortage, he handles small change with a dexterity that would make a banker green with envy.

A kindly old lady in a poke bernet sat and watched him juggle nickels the other day. His four-fingered exercise finally aroused her admiration. She leaned over.

"You are very clever with your hands," she said, "for a man with a finger short."

The conductor blushed.

"Yes'm," he said politely.

"How did you lose your finger?" asked the kindly old soul, ready with sympathy. The conductor blushed again.

"Well, yu' see, m'am, it was like this: I just wore it off polatin' out the scenery to passengers."

ELEPHANT WISE; REMEMBERS SPANKING

Harry T. Cornell, in his younger days, used to manage a circus, and so learned to take care of elephants. Even today he is an accomplished "bull man," and every elephant that visits Oakland makes friends with and is fed by the Orpheum manager.

Last year Cornell bought an elephant from a stranded show in Sacramento, and brought it down from the state capital on a river boat for a friend of his who managed a troupe of midgits. A few days ago the act arrived in Oakland again and Cornell dropped around to see "his elephant."

The elephant evidently recognized him. It remained facing him the whole time he was in the stable; never took its eyes from him.

"Gee, that elephant must like you," remarked the stableman.

"Likes him nothing!" explained the elephant-tender. "That elephant's wise—that's all. He stole a lot of fruit coming down on the Sacramento boat, and Cornell spanked him with a board. He's just making sure Cornell don't get another chance to pull off an encore of that spanking."

THIS MULE IS SOME DAUBER

There's many a slip between the brush and the grand prize! Oakland has a colony of futuristic artists. They paint midwint in a state of transmutation, cosmic urges en rapport, and nothing going nowhere through infinity, and all that stuff. But a sign painter named Hoskins, who lives near Diamond canyon, beat them all—past, present and future.

Hoskins has a mule, Jessie. He fastened a canvas on his back fence. Then he dipped Jessie's tail in a bucket of vermilion paint and tickled her in the ribs. Jessie swiped a crimson line across the canvas. Then Hoskins dipped Jessie's tail in Prussian blue, and Jessie switched a blue streak over the red. As long as his paint held out Hoskins tickled Jessie. When it was finished it was a grand effect. The canvas looked like a riot in a confetti factory. Whereupon Hoskins removed the canvas, dried it, framed it carefully with a gold frame from another picture and took it around and showed it to one of his futurist friends.

"Bully!" said the friend. "Magnificent!"

"Kaiser Bill Eating Noodles in Potsdam," said Hoskins.

HARD TIME TO UNDERSTAND TRUTH

Truth is a strange word to Witness Kawana, a Japanese ice cream dealer on Seventh street, called to testify in the suit of an ice cream company against another ice cream company for $10,000 damages and an injunction, on trial before Judge Dudley Kinsell.

Kawana took the oath, and then Clerk Larue asked him if he knew what it meant. He said he didn't. Larue asked him if he talked English, and he said he did. Then Judge Kinsell sought to determine if the witness really comprehended. He asked him if he understood the word "truth." The witness said he did not. After a few more questions the judge suggested that he should be examined through an interpreter. Attorney W. T. Satterwhite, for

Navy to Rescue of Billy King's "Rep"

"Bill" King, crack athlete of the University of California and for four years a member of the football team, is no dowerer from the United States navy, all official notice to that effect to the contrary. Friends of King were surprised that he should be reported as a deserter, but none believed that he had deserted, and now comes proof that they were right, for the navy department has caused to be published notice that King never has been off the job, but all the time has been on duty at the submarine base at San Pedro.

the plaintiff, then conducted an examination on his own account.

"You know that this is a courtroom?"

The witness did.

"You know that the man there is a judge?"

The witness did.

"You know that I am a lawyer?"

The witness did.

Attorney Roscoe D. Jones, for the defendants, interposed the observation that the last answer disqualified the witness beyond doubt. But they allowed the witness to testify.

"I sleep in mud; I bathe in blood; but my soul is with the stars."

AND when his black hour comes—when his cry for help and mercy goes out to you thousands of miles from home—

Does it matter, then, whose boy he is? He is some mother's boy—isn't he? Some mother crooned him to sleep in his lullaby days; some mother spent anxious days and wakeful nights over his little trundle bed; some mother cuddled him and nursed him and prayed for him and watched him grow into sturdy manhood. And then, when the call came, some mother gave him willingly—aye, fervently—that other mothers' sons yet to come may enjoy peace and freedom and democracy as their rightful heritage.

FOR days on end he wallowed in mud—for months he stood the muck and the filth and the stench of the trenches. And now he lies wounded—his life-blood slowly ebbing away. Picture the anguish, the torture, the despair, the misery of it all!

Can you find it in your heart to deny him the help he so urgently needs? True—you cannot be there to help him. But the Red Cross—as your representative—is there. Will you do your share to keep this "hand of mercy" at its work? Will you help the Red Cross—The Greatest Mother in the World—to care for this mother's son and thousands and thousands like him?

Remember—every cent of every dollar received for the Red Cross War Fund goes for War Relief. Don't wait until you're asked—give now; give until your heart says stop! Mail your check TODAY to Campaign Headquarters, Oakland Chapter, American Red Cross, 1444 Broadway, Oakland.

Fate of Malcolm McGown Will Be Weighed on Scales of Public Opinion

TRIBUNE WILL BE OPEN FORUM FOR SENTIMENT

By HARRY L. SULLY.

The fate of Malcolm McGown, perhaps his very life, is hanging in the balance. It rests with Adult Probation Officer Leonard Compton to say whether the man who shot and killed the betrayer of his daughter shall be permitted to go out into the world, to have his chance, or whether he shall be sentenced to the state prison. And Compton, after reviewing all the factors in the case, stated today that he has not been able to make up his mind.

McGown is ill. He is waiting anxiously in the county jail for the decision that will make it possible for him to return to his home, to go back to work where he can help support his wife, his daughter and can make preparation for the new life that is coming into the world as the result of the crime for which he killed Rasmus J. Groden. His friends believe that if he is not given probation, it will be virtually a sentence of death for him, as they say that he will not survive being sent to the penitentiary.

The adult probation office is the creation of the best public opinion of today, and Compton believes that it should express the best thought of the public in its dealings with the men and women referred to the office by the courts. In dealing with this case he is seeking an expression of the best public opinion.

THE OPEN FORUM.
The Blue Bird Bureau of the Oakland Tribune has consented to the use of its columns to record that opinion, and letters concerning the case will be given place in it.

This is the first time in the history of Alameda county that a man who has confessed the crime of manslaughter has been referred at his own request to the adult probation officer for his recommendations as to the disposition of the case. It is a test case of the probation system, a case that will set a precedent in the annals of criminal and probation procedure in California.

The problem over which Adult Probation Officer Leonard Compton has been studying and working for a month will be presented to the public for its consideration. It is a problem more intricate than that presented to the jury in the McGown case—yet the jury disagreed. The jury was asked to decide on the guilt or innocence of McGown, basing its verdict on the facts presented at the trial. Only the facts, a record of actions in the past, had to be considered. But Compton must consider the possible future actions of this man, must consider whether he is a "good risk." He must consider how his decision will affect the standing, the future of probation work, in the community. He must balance the right of the individual to a "chance to make good" against the right of the community to protection

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Here are the questions Leonard Compton, probation officer, must answer before he recommends that Malcolm McGown, who has pleaded guilty to having killed R. J. Groden, betrayer of his daughter, shall be given his chance to "make good" under probation:

1.—Is the nature of the crime such that the person convicted of it should not under any circumstances be allowed at liberty? (Persons convicted of murder, burglary in the first degree, highway robbery, and arson where life is endangered, have rarely been admitted to probation.)

2.—Is the past record of the applicant for probation such that it would appear that he would "make good" if given the chance? (Under this question the previous criminal record, if any, the industrial, social, family and medico-psychological records of the applicant are considered.)

3.—From the general impression, attitude of the applicant, opportunities to be afforded in future by environment and general circumstances, do you think that the applicant will "make good" under probation?

4.—Will the effect on the public of granting probation in this case be beneficial. (In answering this question the attitude of the public toward the probation system, the attitude that would follow if the larger number of persons admitted to probation failed to "make good," and the possible influence upon that portion of the population inclined to criminality of granting probation too easily, are considered.)

5.—Is the attitude of his friends and family, his employers or business associates favorable to granting probation? (The loyalty of a man's friends, family and associates is not only considered in measuring the character of the man, but also in its bearing on the question of the chances he will give, if freed on probation, to re-establish himself as a self-respecting and worthy member of the community.)

against a man who has confessed the crime of manslaughter.

BALANCE IS DELICATE.

It is no simple task that has been assigned to the adult probation officer. His sympathies go out to the man who has been studied, to the wife who has stood so loyally by McGown, to the 16-year-old daughter who was made the victim of the slain man. But he knows by experience that he must not permit his emotions to rule in reaching a decision. His task, beside that of judge and jury, is complex in the extreme. It is not, as in the case of the judge, merely a matter of interpreting and passing upon the law. It is not, as in the case of the jury, merely a matter of rendering a verdict upon the facts. It is the task of reaching a decision after a painstaking review of the facts, the law, the crime, the character of the man applying for probation, the chances of his coping with his environment and coming out victor, the attitude of the public mind toward the probation system, a system still in its experimental, "working out" stage.

Several years ago when half a dozen youths and young men became involved in a sensational crime, and when their parents sought to have them granted probation, the juvenile probation officer called in a jury composed of several clergymen, well known in Oakland, several attorneys and public men, and several women. The facts were presented to them and their advice was sought. While they did not decide the fate of the boys involved, the weight of their opinion was one of the factors in the case.

PUBLIC THE ARBITER.
The public will be made the "advisory jury" in the McGown case. Following is given a brief history of the case, and in subsequent stories, the various factors that will influence Adult Probation Officer Compton's decision will be considered. On the night of January 29, this year, McGown, a Wells Fargo employee living at 32 Bowle street,

Piedmont, entered the Oakland police department central station and, walking to the desk, offered to give himself up.

"I have shot a man," he said, simply, but apparently in a somewhat dazed manner. The police at first did not believe him, but were convinced when he turned over his revolver to them. Subsequently the body of Groden, a Norwegian sailor, was found in the corridor of the Bacon block, with two shots through the chest.

McGown's story, corroborated in detail by his wife and daughter, revealed the tragedy behind the shooting—the story of how the girl was victimized by the Norwegian sailor who had the cayman philosophy: "Let him take who has the power."

He had taken the girl, had threatened her with death, and her family with death, if she told the secret. That was her testimony in the trial of her father for murder.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

When she learned that it would only be a matter of time before the facts must become known she ran away from home, and it was through this that the parents learned of her trouble.

McGown came to trial last month, and the jury on which there were three women, disagreed after being out many hours, the three women voting for acquittal. When the case came up for retrial McGown asked permission to change his plea to guilty, provided the charge was reduced from murder to manslaughter. This was granted, and he applied for probation. The case was referred to the public for its opinion.

In what is he going to do about it?

MANY SHIFTS IN RAILROAD TIME TABLES

Changes in the transcontinental train service of the Southern Pacific company, in accordance with the order issued by Director-General of Railroads William A. McAdoo for the conservation of fuel, motive power and equipment, have just been issued, to become effective June 2.

For those trains which leave or arrive via the Oakland mole a difference of 35 minutes must be made between the departure time stated in San Francisco and the departure time from Sixteenth-street station. This is due to the fact that practically all trains leave Sixteenth-street station 25 minutes later than their schedule reading in San Francisco.

The altered schedules are as follows: On the Shasta route between San Francisco and Portland, the Shasta Limited has been withdrawn, leaving, however, three trains at convenient hours to handle the traffic: No. 14, Portland Express, leaving San Francisco at 10:20 a. m., No. 15, Oregon Express, at 8:20 p. m., and No. 16, Oregonian, at 10:20 p. m.

"DE LUXE" FEATURES GONE.

On the San Francisco-Ogden route one train has been withdrawn and the exclusive feature and extra fare of the Overland Limited removed. The Overland Limited, as No. 2, operating via the Union Pacific, Chicago and Northwestern routes, will leave San Francisco at 9:40 a. m., with a 72-hour schedule to Chicago, where it will arrive in time to make all the morning connections.

The Pacific Limited, No. 20, will leave San Francisco, operating over the Union Pacific, Chicago and Northwestern routes, at 1 p. m., on a 72-hour schedule, arriving at Chicago at 4 p. m. in time for the evening connections.

Train No. 6, the Atlantic Express, will leave San Francisco at 6:20 a. m., at present, and on the same schedule for Truckee Lake (Tahoe), Reno and Nevada points, connecting at Ogden with the Denver and Rio Grande trains.

Train No. 10, the San Francisco Limited, is discontinued. Only one train has been local from San Francisco to Reno, will leave San Francisco at 1:20 a. m., arriving at Reno at 4:30 p. m.

SUNSET LIMITED REMOVED.

On the Coast route the Sunset Limited between San Francisco and Los Angeles has been withdrawn. This train will still operate from Los Angeles to San Francisco, but will be made up of other trains. The San Francisco-Los Angeles service will consist of trains on the Coast line as follows:

No. 78, Shore Line Limited, leaving at 8 a. m., for San Jose, Santa Clara, and San Francisco, will leave at 8 a. m., leaving time not yet decided.

On the San Joaquin valley line train No. 8 leaves San Francisco at 8:20 a. m., train No. 50 leaves at 4 p. m., and No. 26, the Owl, leaves at 6 p. m. Train No. 56 will continue to leave San Francisco at 11:40 p. m. for San Joaquin valley points.

Train No. 32, now leaving at 10 a. m. for San Jose, Stockton and Sacramento, will leave at 8 a. m. Train No. 82, now leaving at 7:20 a. m., being withdrawn.

Local service between San Francisco and Santa Rosa, Callistoga, Stockton and San Jose has been very little disturbed.

Railroad officials do not believe that the reduction of passenger service will mean the releasing of any of the trainmen and crews affected by the changes will be absorbed by the freight service if there is a surplus.

Four Sailors Held On Serious Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—Charges that four seamen used I. W. tactics to either betray the American ship Moschule into German hands or to use sabotage to delay the vessel on its voyage from Melbourne to San Francisco are being investigated today by the Department of Justice, following the arrest of the sailors by Lieutenant Randall Rogers, U. S. N., who was in charge of fifteen merchant marine apprentices on the Moschule. The men were turned over to Captain J. J. O'Meara of the police neutrality squad. They are Andrew J. Wally, Russian, boat swain; Harold Lincoln, American; John Talce, Russian; and Alfred Vale, Russian.

Mills College Girls Win Bonheim Prize

Miss Hilda Clute and Miss Helen Ayres, students of Mills College, are winners of the Bonheim prize for equal standing in scholarship and student activities. They were awarded the prize at the graduating exercises of the class of 1918, at the college yesterday.

Miss Clara Elliot, a member of the Mills College faculty, it was announced yesterday, will go to New Haven as an assistant to Professor Irving Fisher, professor of political economy. Her work will be that of investigator and statistician, chiefly concerning the problems of war-time inflation of currency and prices.

Negligence Nullifies Claim for Damages

Judge W. S. Wells allowed a non-suit in the action of Jacob Wing, a junk man, against the Western Pacific for $25,000 damages claimed as the result of losing his right arm and leg in an accident occurring last year, when he was hit by a train while driving his junk wagon across the company's track. Judge Wells found that the plaintiff had been negligent, and that his negligence brought the trouble upon himself.

PEA PICKERS JOIN CORPS TO SAVE CROP

A long lumber truck crowded with fifty Fremont High School girls was driven out to the 195th avenue fields this afternoon by Miss Marjorie Miller, the Mills College Junior who has become chaffeur in chief to the forces of young people who are making a desperate effort to save the pea crop, which is threatened by entire loss through a shortage of labor. Miss Miller, who is the daughter of Coroner Grant D. Miller and Mrs. Miller, is a leader in the Mills Service Unit, and it was through her efforts, with the assistance of Miss Marjorie Dinsmore, that yesterday the twelve college girls invaded the local pea fields. This morning the girls stayed by the job and have worked through the long day. After school today Miss Miller, who has learned a half-hundred Fremont high school students to join in the practical patriotic work for which the standard wage is paid.

GREAT FUN.

"It's great fun picking peas," declared Miss Miller this morning, both for herself and the college women who served with her. "We did not go out yesterday until after 3 o'clock and were obliged to be back before 6, but some of the girls picked more than forty pounds each. They picked in eighteen-pound buckets and when one was full we all gathered around too excited for anything to see it weighed."

The Mills College girls who are working in the Oakland pea fields are Miss Marjorie Miller, Miss Marjorie Dinsmore, Miss Mabel Wilcox, Miss Betty Magee, Miss Mary Spencer, Miss Anita Cavannah, Miss Bernice Tuttle, Miss Violet Stockholm, Miss Anne Ireland, Miss Jean Miller. To their number has been added Miss Beatrice Anderson, a University of California student, and Miss Margaret Anderson of Alameda.

HIGH SCHOOL, TOO.

A half hundred girls from the Technical High School have volunteered to give Saturday to pea picking through the National League for Women's Service. They will be sent out to 195th avenue in large trucks.

More calls have come in for help from other landholders who see their crops suffering for lack of workers. Applications from individual workers or groups of workers who are anxious to show their patriotism and at the same time receive remuneration for their services may be made at Room 420 Central Bank Building, or the State Employment Bureau at Tenth and Franklin streets.

Native Daughters' and Sons' Memorial Service

An impressive program will mark the memorial services which will be given next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Native Sons Hall, Eleventh and Clay streets, by the Alameda County chapters of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. Miss Grace S. Sturmer of Los Angeles, grand president of the Native Daughters, and Dr. Victory A. Derrick, grand trustee, will be among those to attend. George W. Prick will deliver the address and the eulogy will be given by Ezra Decoto. A musical program by well known artists will also be given.

MURIEL PIERCE THANKS TRIBUNE FOR SCHOOL FLAG

Editor TRIBUNE: In behalf of the Vocational High School, I wish to thank you for the beautiful flag you have presented to me as a prize for my essay, "Why Keep the Flag Up?"

Our school will always find a place of honor for the magnificent banner that is now ours, and we will give it the best of loving care, honoring it for all that it represents.

The pleasure that I have felt in receiving the flag is more than I can express in words, and I shall always cherish the memory as a reminder of the happiest moments in my school days.

Thanking you again, I remain, Sincerely yours,
MURIEL PIERCE.

LIEUT. JAMES PALACHE DIES AT U. S. FRONT

Lieutenant James Palache, 22, member of a prominent east bay family and a graduate of Harvard University, representing the East Oakland community, died at the front in action in France, where he served with the United States Regular Army, according to word received today by his aunt, Mrs. Frank D. Stringham, wife of City Attorney Stringham of Berkeley. Word of Lieutenant Palache's death was contained in a telegram sent by the War Department.

John Palache, a brother of the dead officer, is also with the United States Regulars. Lieutenant Palache was son of Whitney Palache, who lives at Oxford, Conn. He was a grandson of the late Judge John Garber, and member of one of the best known families in the east bay region.
